Ablay died somewhat suddenly at Mme. Joniaux's house in Antwerp. In March, 1893, M. Van Ben Kerchove, a rich manufacturer of Ghent, and an ex-Senator, died suddenly from what was described as an attack of apopiexy immediately after a dinner to which he had been invited by M. and Mme. Joniaux.

On the initiative of the manager of the company the authorities took the matter up. The three bodies were exhumed. Traces of poison were found in the intestines of M. Ablay. Mme. Joniaux, it was known, had caused some morphine to be purchased the night before her brother died.

A correspondent at Antwerp who watched the trial of Mme. Joniaux writes: In the trial just closed M. Holvoet presided. He is the counselor of the Court of Appeals at Brussels and one of the most distinguished jurists in Belgium. The prosecution is conducted by M. Servals, Advocate-General of the Court of Appeals. Mme. Joniaux is represented by M. Graux, a well known criminal lawyer of Brussels, and M. Hendrick of Antwerp. The court procedure was French. The judge is both judge and prosecuting attorney. His business is not to pass upon points of law but to find out the truth. The prisoner is completely in his hands. He may question her, cajole, bully, use any means that seem to him best fer the purpose of entrapping her into a confession of the crime. A trial in Antwerp is a duel to the death between the accused and the judge. The lawyers on either side are little more than seconds. They load the weapons and see to it that the duel is fought according to the law and the precedents.

Judge Holvoet is reckoned one of the most terrible antagonists on the Belgian bench. He is past middle life, a man of Dutch blood, cold, keen, calculating, persistent. His manner is very gentle, but very few criminals have ever stood up against his cross-examinations.

Mme. Joniaux was brought before him first on the morning of Jan. 7. She was led!

tained the objection on the ground that it was an attack on character.

Mr. Erwin then asked Blixt how he accounted for the discrepancy between the two statements he had made as to Harry's giving him the whisky. Blixt wanted to go into an explanation of this after his own ideas, but Erwin insisted on a direct answer. Again Blixt tried to hedge, answering that he was in no condition at the time of his original confession to remember details accurately the Cabinet room or whether they were informed of what occurred through a Cabinet officer.

In February, 1894, M. Alfred Ablay, who had come to Beigium from Paris to sue one of his sons for means of support, died suddenly at Mme. Joniaux's house. His life was insured for 100,000 francs, Mme. Joniaux paying the premium.

It is a matter of some doubt as to whether this meeting of the bankers was prearranged, but the fact that they were at the White House throughout the Cabinet meeting is an event bordering on the remarkable. What statement, if any, Mr. Belmont and Mr. Morgan made in reply to the President's argument that the loan should be taken at 3 per cent cannot be ascertained, as the bankers refuse to talk. It is a fact, however, that they remained after the Cabinet meeting had adjourned and had a further talk with the President and the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Carlisie declines to make any statement as to the bond issue, but he is understood to have intimated that the call would probably be made public not latter than Thursday.

probably be made public not latter than Thursday.

STICKS TO 3 PER CENT.

Naturally after these developments, the form of this notice is a subject of considerable speculation. Whether the bankers agreed to take the loan under 3½ per cent probably will be known to-morrow. It is the impression that the bankers will not submit lower bids. The Fresident, however, is so fixed in his opinion that the bonds could be disposed of readily at 3 per cent that there is a well-defined opinion tonight that further negotiation with the bankers will be conducted to-morrow. All the quartet who were present at the White House are still in the city, and it is thought quite probable that there will be other conferences before they leave. If the bonds are floated at 3½ per cent the premium figures will be il4.34, which will bring the Treasury reserve up to about $160,000.00.

hring the Treasury reserve up to about $160,000,000.

There is no likelihood that a complication will issue to terminate the negotiations which have thus far been made as the Administration realizes that any break now would work untold damage. It is possible that the bankers will compromise on 3%, but there is no information that they have made overtures for any such concession. Apart from the interest question they insist that no further delay in issuing the bonds should be allowed, as such course would tend to bring about a return of the embarrassed conditions. To-morow's conferences are likely to bring about a settlement.

MONTROSE ADMITS HIS GUILT.

When questioned at the Four Courts Montrose at first denied his guilt, but finally admitted that he was the man who had taken the tray of diamonds. One of the rings that had been stolen along with the others in the tray was found on his person. The trunk belonging to the wife of the prisoner was afterward conveyed to the Four Courts in the hope that it might coptain the balance of the booty. In the woman's possession a letter was found which had been written only recently by Montrose to his wife. In this letter, which was written on the Laclede letterhead, Montrose told her to come on at once and he would meet her at the Myrtle Hotel, where he was stopping in East St. Louis. It is believed that in their exits yafter their long separation they forsot to get off the train at East St. Louis.

After the arrest Detective Bambrick took a look at Montrose, and recognized him as wm. Stapleton, who about four years ago was arrested on suspicion of having been implicated in the robbery of Conductor Frye of the Wabash train. The conductor was forced to enter the caboose at the point of a pistoi while the train was passing back of the cemeteries, and was relieved of some money and a gold watch and charm. There ware three robbers in the job, and all escaped. Several shots were fired to intimidate the train crew and passengers, but no one was hurt. Stapleton was released at the time, as nothing could be learned that connected him with the affair. He was then living in this city at 732 Humboldt avenue, which is near the cemeteries, and his divorced wife is still conducting a boarding-heuss at this address.

Later Montrose said the name of his pall in the Terre Haute robbery was "Red" O'Brien. He denied that he was guilty of the Wabash robbery. the bridge saturally Montrose was very all.

The next morning, that was Monday, about I o'clock he handed me his watch, a box of cartridges and a roll of money, and told me to hide them in a tin box, so if he was arrested they would not be found. The watch was gold, and he said there was $50 in money there. At the afternoon session Blixt was again put on the stand, and asked to tell any part of the story he had forgotten in the morning. He said:

"A day or two after the murder Harry came down-stairs and I asked him if he could hold out. He said he had been in the sweat box, but he would not give way, not in forty years. He saked me if my wife could be bought up. I told him she did not know anything, and if she did she could not know anything, and if she did she could not know anything, and if she did she could not be bought. Once he said: 'If I can't do anything size, I'll have rheumatism. I'll have it so bad the doctor will say so. If they come to me and touch me I'll say I can't be moved."

Blixt said that on one occasion when he wanted some new skatew and clothes that Hayward had told him if he (Blixt) would go 'st and kill any man, woman or child any 'ow him the place, he would give him

LIFE AT STAKE.

Her brother, Alfred Ablay, died March 5, 1891.

Then the duel began. Mme. Joniaux stood between the armed guards. At first she was trembling and, seemed half-fainting. It was in a feeble and broken voice that she answered the preliminary questions—her name, age and residence. But when M. Holvoet came to the subject matter of the indictment her manner changed completely. Her attitude was firm and defiant. She answered brusquely and with great assurance, and this was her attitude during the thirty days' duel which has just closed. Her courage only faitered for a moment now and again. Her wit has always served her. She has fought every point tenaciously and with unfagging energy. She is an interesting study, this stout, adroit old woman, with pallid face and unfilinching gray eyes, fighting doggedly and at times hopelessly for her life.

Her plea, of course, was one of "not guilty."

"This succession of deaths was strange," said Mr. Holvoet.

Her plea, of course, was one of "not guility."

This succession of deaths was strange," said Mr. Holvoet.

"Yes," the prisoner answered, after a pause, in which she evidently weighed the duestion to see if it was capable of being turned against her.

"First your sister, then your uncle, then your brother die. In each case the circumstances are identical. It would awaken suspicion quite naturally; yes, the circumstances are very suspicious."

"Before your sister died, your transactions with money-lenders had reached a desperate point. You were threatened with arrest?"

"Yes."

"A similar crisis occurred before your uncle's death?"

"A similar coincidence," Mme. Joniaux replied.

"And before your brother's death you."

replied.

"And before your brother's death you were again pressed by your creditors. You admit this, do you? It was a similar coincidence, I suppose. Your brother Alfred's death—a similar coincidence, I suppose. Your brother Alfred's death—a similar coincidence, yes," M. Holvoet gently continued, while the woman stared at him with an expressionless face, "and a few days before his death—your brother Alfred's death—you purchased a large quantity of morphine."

"Yes," said the woman, "the morphine was for my own use. I am addicted to the morphine habit. I used to take six to eight centigrammers at a dose. I bought the morphine in small quantities at different chemists' shops, because no one chemist would sell me the quantity I was accustomed to take."

"A very clear explanation," Mr. Holvoet said quietly, and the woman looked relieved. Then he turned on her suddenly and shouted: "Hark you, woman, the day, you bought that poison you went to your creditors and promised to settle with them in a few days. At that time you had planned your brother's murder. You counted on his death. You knew you would have his insurance money—and you promised to pay it to your creditors."

The woman, too, raised her voice and shouted back: "It is false, it is false! I was expecting to pay them out of my husband's salary, which was due, and out of other receipts. If I had wanted to poison Alfred do you suppose I would have given my name and address to the chemists? Am I such a foo!"

A clear explanation," said Mr. Holvoet, dropping back into his gentlest manner.

I such a fool?"

A clear explanation," said Mr. Holvoet, dropping back into his gentlest manner.
"You are never at a loss for a reply."
"Why should I not reply?" she exclaimed, and broke down and wept dramatically. "I am alone here, before my judges; who else will defend me? Do you think I do not weep over these events and the shame they have cast on an honest name? Durling these months in my cell I have wept tears of blood. I have prayed God to throw light on this dark mystery, and he will answer me. A witness will come forward to clear me before man and God."

And so the duel went on, day after day. The woman fenced adroitly. But day by day the prosecution has woven the net closer about her and by the testimony of her servants and defectives who worked on the case she was finally convicted and sentenced to death.

Under the Belgian law this sentence of death must be commuted to a sentence of life imprisonment. But this life imprisonment is of such a hideous form that death must soon follow. They will put her in a cell, into which daylight cannot penetrate. She will never see a human being, never hear a human voice again. They will push her food in through a slit in the wall of her cell. She will go mad at the end of a few months if death does not come first. Even the most stupid and degraded have succumbed to this horror of living burial within two years.

SHERIFF FRED S. WECKLER.

Sary I must bear up under it the best I can. At present I can only hope for the best, as there is no telling what the result may be, but I am very glad my trial is at hand, as the life here is very tiresome."

Mrs. Kahn professed to be in the best of health and said she felt reasonably happy for a person in her situation. She was visited at the jail yesterday by numerous persons, and Turnkey Langley was kept so busy honoring permits from Sheriff Weckler for interviews with the woman that his good humor and patience were taxed.

Mrs. Kahn broached a delicate subject to the Sheriff yesterday. She said her clothing was old and worn and she did not like the idea of wearing the shabby garments in which she was then attired during the progress of the trial in the court-room where she would be subjected to the gaze of hundreds of persons daily. Sheriff Weckler apreciated the situation, but had no authority to provide clothing for her, and so informed her attorney. The latter found a way out of the difficulty and sent word to her father, whe had been summoned as a witness, to bring her new clothing.

The Grand-jurors visited the jail yesterday for the purpose of inspecting the institution, and several of the members spoke to Mrs. Kahn. She recognized all of them she had seen before and talked with them quite a while. To them, as to all other visitors, she claimed to be confident of being acquitted. She told the Grand-jurors that she was well treated at the jail and had a good word to say for the keepers.

THE DEFENSE.

Attorney I. N. Threlkeld has undertaken the defense of Mrs. Kahn single-handed. His law partner, R. A. Mooneyham, will not appear in the case at all. Mr. Threlkeld, when seen by the reporter, consented to give an idea of the defense as he had outlined it. "The defense will be conducted along two distinct lines," he said. The defendant's side of the case will be presented in accordance with these two propositions, which have been submitted as the basis faction of the Judge and ju a witness to the murder of her own hus band. An interesting and perhaps length; trial may be looked for as the defense will contest every inch of ground, and I understand the prosecution proposes to make a bitter fight for conviction. The defense will fight the case to the end, and if beaten at this trial will carry on the battle until either an acquittal or a final conviction is reached."

at this trial will carry on the battle until either an acquittal or a final conviction is reached."

CERTAIN OF CONVICTION.

Prosecuting Attorney Schaefer spoke confidently about his side of the case, and expressed the opinion that the trial would certainly result in a conviction. "We have a good case and a clear case," he said, "and will no doubt be able to show that the woman was equally responsible with Centrel for the death of her husband. Mrs. Kahn's own statements are sufficient to convict her, but the prosecution has other evidence equally convincing. There are a number of responsible persons to give evidence of the finding of the body and the discovery of Mrs. Kahn and Centrel together in the house after the murder, with their bloody garments still undisposed of. Then there will be plenty of witnesses to show the motive for the crime, besides the mute evidence of the pistol and hammer with which the deed was done.

THE WITNESSES.

Upwards of sixty witnesses have been subpoenaed, about fifty of them for the defense. Among the latter are Joseph Vondrie of East St. Louis, her store. Edmund Beseau of East St. Louis, her former husband, has also been subpoenaed, but he is to be a witness for the prosecution. When Mrs. Kahn heard that her former husband was to appear against her sister. Edmund Britand, has also been subpoenaed, but he is to be a witness for the prosecution. When Mrs. Kahn heard that her former husband was to appear against her sister Edmund First had nine wives. He had better stay at home than to come here to testify against me. I was his first wife, and he had nine altogether."

Attorney Threlkeld has been looking up the career of Bessess and he had nine altogether."

me. I was his first wife, and he had nine altogether."

Attorney Threlkeld has been looking up the career of Beseau and has found records of four divorce suits in which the man has figured. Mrs. Kahn will not appear as a witness, her attorney having decided not to put her on the stand.

The murder was committed the night of Aug. 7, 1884, at Kahn's farm, near East Carondelet. It was planned several weeks before, and was once postponed on account of the arrival of visitors at the farm the night first decided upon for its commission. It is still a question whether Centrel or the woman first suggested the idea of putting Kahn out of the way. Centrel always claimed the woman urset him to kill her husband and threatened to do it herself, but Mrs. Kahn has persistently desied that examinally intimate ments of the Centrel and Mrs. Eash became comminally intimate ments.

DRINK DID IT.

said Sheriff Weckler, "and I think she may be sentenced to imprisonment for something like fifteen years, but I do not think an extreme penalty will be imposed, as Centrel pleaded guilty to the crime and suffered death in extenuation."

Sheriff Weckler escaped the painful duty of executing Centrel, as though he was elected to the office three weeks before the hanging occurred, he did not take possession until Dec. 3, and the springing of the trap that sent the murderer to eternity was almost the last official act of his predecessor, Jeff Langley, Sheriff Weckler has been the keeper of Mrs. Kahn only two months, but in that time he has found her a most tractable and well-behaved prisoner.

It was along in June, 1883, about the tenth of the month, when James Nutt went home to his widowed mother and slandered sister and said:

"I can't stand this. I met Dukes on the street to-day and he laughed in my fooe."

On June 13, after nightfall, James Nutt was seen practicing with a revolver at his home. Shortly afterwards he went to the postoffice and waited for his father's murderer to pass by. Duke came tripping unconcernedly down the street at 7:20 p. m. As he passed he turned his head casually and his face blanched with fear. He saw Capt. Nutt's son stepping from the door of the postoffice, with a new, shining revolver leveled with steady aim. Dukes started to run, but he could not escape the avenger's bullets. Four pistol shots rang out in swift succession. The first took effect in Dukes' side. The second was fired by young Nutt while he was running in close pursuit of the fleeing Dukes. It "grounded" the man, who stagged into the postoffice and fell just within the doorway. Nutt fired two more shots into the prostrate body, and his grim work of vengeance was complete. Dukes lay dead, and hundreds of people who had hurried to the scene at the sound of the pistol shots, surrounded Nutt and cried: "Lynch him". No! They said, "Well done." Nutt was cool and calm. He simply said that "it had to be done," and surrendered himself to the authorities.

Lest justice should not be done in Uniontown, where popular feeling ran high in favor of the young prisoner, Nutt's trial was held in Pittaburg before Judge Stowe and a jury of men who did not know either the signer or the slain, and who had no prejudices.

When the whole case had been laid before them in a careful trial, which lasted many days, they returned this verdict on Jan. 22, 1894: "Not guilty, on account of insanity at the time the act was committed."

The news of the verdict was received with great rejoicing at Uniontown. The newspaper press of the whole country, with few exceptions, approved it on the ground that a miscarriage of justice had occurred

UNKNOWN MAN.

DIED AT THE CITY HOSPITAL UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

An unknown white man died at the City Hospital this morning from cerebral hemorrhage, in what manner caused is not known. He was taken to the City Dispensary at 6:15 o'clock Teesday evaning. In answer to 8 call from 1947 Gay street, and was at once fifewarded to the Hospital, where he died about 3:45 o'clock Wednesday meeting. The following day the premises were

ALKY BILL JOYCE.

Bign for 1895.

WAS PROMISED AN INCREASE AND HE INSISTS ON GETTING IT.

illiam Joyce, the hard-hitting third man and captain of the Washington use team, has received his contract for but the amount it calls for does not the Senator's star, and unless he against the senator's star, and unless he against the senator's star, and unless he gares his mind or they come to his terms wagners will find it no easy job getting se in line. Joyce had just finished a game of hand ball in the No. 5 Engine se court, Wednesday morning, when the other asked him about his Washington tract.

House court, Wednesday morning, when the reporter asked him about his Washington contract.

"Well," said the Washington captain, "I haven't signed, and unless I change my mind, which isn't likely, I don't think I will at the terms offered. My contract arrived before Christmas. It calls for the same salary I received last season, but had been promised an increase, and accordingly wrote Manager Schmels and the Wagners about the matter. In reply I was informed that I could get no more money, and that's about the way the matter stands at present. When I signed last year I was told that if the Washington club made money during the season of 188. I would get a substantial increase this season. I know the club made money, and I don't think it is unreasonable for me to ask for the promised increase. Abbey, Mercer and other players on the team have had their salaries increased, and if the club can afford to give these men more money I certainly am justified in demanding what was promised me. Even when paid a big salary it is no pleasure to play ball with a team like Washington, and I make no secret of the fact that I would like to be with a winning team once more. The Washington management don't seem to appreciate my work, and I would welcome a change. All I want is the limit and extra compensation for captaining the club. That's no more than any ball player will admit I am worth. Of course, players can no longer command larger salaries than Senators or Congressmen, but there is such a thing as a ball player knowing what his services are worth, and no one will blame him for trying to get it. If the Washington management is willing to stand by the promise made to me last year I am willing to play there again, and, what's more, will do so with the same vigor as I did when with the Boston champions and Brooklyns. However, it is a horse of a different color to ask a man to play with a lot of losers for less money than he knows he could get with winners were he only in a position to join them. That was my fix last year, and pleasant prospect confronts me again this season."

Neither the Baltimores nor New Yorks intend in tarnish the glory achieved last season by winning the Temple Cup and the championship pennant respectively by losing any games before the season this spring says the Cincinnati Inquirer. In reply to an invitation from Manager Bancroft to the New Yorks to play a series of games while South, Manager Davis replied that the New York did not intend to play any league team before the championship seasor opened. The Baltimores have made the same declaration. Managers Davis and Hanlon are going to give their admirers a strong jolly in the spring by trouncing amateur and minor league nines.

The Reds will play two games April 8.

The Reds will play two games April 8. The Vets, with Phillips and Spies as their battery, will go to Indianapolis to play the Hoosiers. The Colts with one of last year's batteries will remain at home and play one of the strong semi-professional teams. With the players now under contract two teams can be organized to play in two different cities abroad, while a third team can be playing at home on the same date. Cincinnati virtually has three teams under contract and reservation.

"I never heard anything about the Pittsburg Club wanting to trade Stenzel for Down of the St. Louis Club until I read the story in a morning paper," said Manager Mack. "So far as I know, we will make no more trades, as we are perfectly satisfied to stand pat with the team we have."

Judging by the following from an Indianapolis exchange, there is trouble brewing for the President of the Western League would take the time to look after the affairs of John T. Brush and the Cincinnati Club, the Western League might be better off. Mr. Johnson cannot throw bouquets at himself for promptness in baseball matters if his record last year is a criterion." rd last year is a criterion.

THE BROOKLYN CLUB.

ent Byrne Discusses the Make-Up of the Bridegrooms.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—President Byrne of the Brooklyn Baseball Club called upon Edward B. Talcott to cash in some Government bonds and incidentally discussed baseball with a World reporter.

"We are not saying much," remarked Mr. Byrne, "but the Brooklyn team will surprise quite a few people this season or I miss my guess. We will beat out the New Yorks, anyway. In Kennedy, Gumbert, Stein, Lucid and Daube we have an excellent corps of pitchers. Gumbert will do good work for us. In Chicago he was at loggerheads with Anson and he did not fancy his surroundings in Pittsburg. He has been anxious to come to the Metropolis and being satisfactorily located he will put forth his best efforts.

WHEELMEN'S ASSEMBLY.

the threat that there would be a rival cycle show in Chicago next season in opposition to the show held under the auspices of the Board of Trade seems to have been premature. Samuel Miles of the Referee reports that he has so far received 140 applications for space in the forthcoming show at the twin armories in Chicago. At the recent Chicago show 548 wheels were shown. At New York the number was 423. The promoters of the Chicago show do not wish to run counter to the National Board of Trade and will apply for a permit to give their second annual show under the board's auspices.

Irish Roman Catholic priests will doubtless be much amused over a paragraph which has been going the rounds of the general press, says the Irish Cyclist. "Bicycles are seriously engrossing the attention of Italian Bishops," says our paragraphist. The Pope has nominated a committee to examine the bloycle question from a moral point of view, and the fact that priests have to remove their gowns in order to cycle will also be considered. Surely the Pope does not know that ladies not only ide bicycles in England, but remove their skirts in order to do so." And surely his noliness does not know that there is hardy a parish in this tight little island without its cycling priest or curate, nor can be aware of the fact that a Dublin firm of cycle agents received an order to supply over 200 safety bicycles for the students of Maynooth College when they separated for their vacation last year.

A. L. JORDAN'S ICECYCLE.

Novel Innovation of a St. Louise Forest Park.

A. L. Jordan furnished amusement for several thousand people on the Forest Park Lake Sunday morning by riding an "Ice-ycle," as he terms his combination of bicycle and skate. This form of locometion on the ice is popular in the East, but Mr. Jordan's machine is the first that has ever been ridden in St. Louis.

The innovation in this city is a clever arrangement of a runner in the place of the front wheel of a safety bleycle. A rod is extended down from the steering head to the rear of the skate blade and two others connect the front part of the runner with the forks at the point where the latter are secured to the axle of the wheel. These rods are braced together.

The driving power is the same as the bicycle, but a studded band of iron on the rear wheel forms the traction. The latter is made with pointed rivets, projecting about a quarter of an inch from it. The

A. L. JORDAN'S ICECYCLE. pneumatic tire is deflated and the band then placed on it. When the tire is in-flated the band is held firmly in place. Mr. Jordan rode his "icecycle" over the snow to Forest Park, and then went for a slide and a spin on the ice. The watch-come to the Metropolis and being satisfactorily located he will put forth his best efforts.

"Behind the bat we are exceptionally strong. Grim, Con Dailey and the new man, Burreil, make us well nigh impregnable in the back-stop position. La Chance at first, Tom Daly at second, Mulvey on third and Tommy Corcoran at shortstop will be the infield. There has been some talk of Daly being a weak spot, but just tell me which second baseman outclasses him.

"We have five outfielders—Anderson, Treadway, Burns, Hines and last, but not least, Mike Griffin. Just which of the four candidates will be selected to cover right and left fields depends upon their work in the practice games. Tom Burns will not be released, unless we can make a trade for a man his equal.

"If Dave Foutz cannot play he will be retained as manager. He is too good a man to let go. We are not saying much, but don't forget that we have quietly brought together a great team."

The quarrel between Latonia and Oakley over the date for the spring meeting is still on. There was an idea that the trouble had been settled, but such is not the case. Said an Oakley stakeholder: "If the two clubs clash, both will lose a barrel of money. There is no question about there being enough horses and jockeys, but that is not the most important adjunct to a track. Bookmakers cut the most important fagure. They are getting scarcer every year. Why? Well, because the form students are getting too smart for them and their bank rolls are melting under the strain. If the bookies keep falling out the race associations will have tough pickings. Now, if Latonia and Oakley divide the bookmakers by a clash, they will catch it hot and heavy."

Atlantic Club's Claim to the Maher-O'Donnell Mill Premature.

The Atlantic Athletic Club, doing business at Coney Island, has gotten into something of a tangle by claiming that it had matched Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell. Billy Brady, who is looking after O'Donnell's interests, denies the Atlantic's story, and he probably knows what he is talking about. He says the men have been matched to meet in a twenty-five round contest, March 25, and that they will box before the club offering the largest purse. If the Atlantics fill the bill in this respect they may have the match, but otherwise it will be decided elsewhere.

have the match, but otherwise it will be decided elsewhere.

Thomas Denny is the latest Australian puglist to arrive in this country. Denny looks strong, and apparently weighs in the neighborhood of 120 pounds. He said that he was ready and anxious to get on a match with George Dixon, but, falling in that, would take on any clever man at 118 to 122 pounds, in private or public. Sam Fitzpatrick, his manager, will put up a forfeit of $500 as soon as Denny's challenge is accepted, it is said that if Dixon will agree to meet Denny the Seaside Athletic Club may offer a purse for the match. Denny, who is the feather-weight champion of Australia, stopped in England on his way to this country, and made quite a record for himself as a clever boxer.

Peter Jackson writes: "I don't expect to return to America for about four months yet. There is nothing for me as I can see in America just now. I coudn't get on a match there, even if I tried. My sparring partner is David St. John, the Welshman. He is a strapping big fellow and fairly clever. About the challenge of Craig, the 'coffee cooler,' I may state that I will not notice him. Why should 1? Perhaps if he can get sufficient backing I will talk to him, but not unt'l then. Puglism abroad is way up and lots of sport is going on. I don't know whether I shall meet someone in England in a real contest before I come to the United States. My plans are not made up as yet."

There has a falling out between Manager Lawrence T. Curtis and Jim Hall and they have parted. Hall is in training for his match with Maher at Grosse Point, near this city, and Curtis is waiting for some letters before he goes to Chicago. When asked today why he had quit Hall, Curtis said: "We could not get along together." Asked if Hall was training faithfully, Curtis shrugged his shoulders and said; "I don't know anything about it." There was more in the shrug of his shoulders than he could have told in words.—Inter Ocean.

Reed's speech yesterday was brief and free from jibes and sarcasm. It looks as if the ex-Speaker's presidential ambition beginning to make a cautious, solid statesman of him. There is no doubt that he can make himself as dull as ckinley when he chooses.

The Cubans are again stirred to patriotic enthusiasm, and perhaps we may as well go on and annex Cuba, Newfoundland and Hawaii at once. There is no limit to jingoism, and we can issue more bonds for what additional debts we may acquire. With the Rothschilds at our back, we may do what we please.

Clarkson of Iowa describes our present Government as "a gold President, a silver Senate and a greenback House." Tom Reed says that after March 4 it will be "a measurably Democratic President, a Republican House and a miscellaneous Senate." With a "miscellaneous" Senate all Mr. Reed's statesmanship, which he will exercise from the Speaker's chair, may come to naught: and if so, the "measurably Democratic President" will cut no figure in the work of the session.

PENITENTIABY REFORM.

The bill to advance the contract price of convict labor in the State Penitentiary only touches the surface of the convict labor question.

Our whole penitentiary system smacks of the dark ages. Convict labor is prac-tically slave labor. It kills free labor competition in all lines of industry which it touches. It condemns the convict to labor without hope of reward, without a chance to earn a new start in life or to help those dependent upon him to keep from starvation, vice or crime. At a sacrifice of all the ends which society strives to accomplish, it is organized solely for the benefit of contractors. The State is worsted at every point.

Nothing short of a thorough examination of the subject and an intelligent readjustment of the system on a sensible and humane basis, which will promote the public welfare by reducing the temptations to crime and protecting free labor will do any good. There is work here for a Legislature to do, but it seems impossible to get one capable of doing it.

STREET CAR MAIL SERVICE.

Postmaster Hesing of Chicago proposes not only to follow the example of St. Louis in putting mail cars on trolley lines, but to attempt the utilization of suburban trolley lines for mail purposes in a more radical manner. He is arrang ing to place mail boxes on ordinary pas-

At first glance this appears to be nothing more than an effort to improve the mail service of outlying districts by a simple means, and to some extent it will accomplish the end sought. It will make difference of several hours in the time of mailing letters in districts distant from the Post-office.

But the experiment may involve a consequence of far greater importance than the improvement of suburban mail service. Each street car carrying a United States mail box would be a mail car. It would be entitled therefore to the protection of the United States authorities. In case of a strike it is highly probable fere with a car of this description or by any means to impede its progress would be interference with the United States mails. There would be an excellent opening, therefore, for invoking the power of the Federal Courts and the use of Federal troops in strikes on mail-carrying street car lines.

It is not surprising that Mr. Yerkes heartily coincided with the suggestion of Postmaster Hesing and promised to operate with him in the plan. There will be no difficulty in inducing any street car manager to accept mail boxes for his company's cars. The Brooklyn managers would jump at the chance of carrying the mails free of charge.

THE PINANCIAL CLASS.

A corespondent rises in the thick of the financial wrangle to ask why so much gold is being exported, who gets it and what we are getting for it.

We take pleasure in offering this anxious inquirer the available explanations of the exportation of gold. Most of it is charged to the sale of American securi ies, part to the payment of balances of lay hands on as much yellow metal as possible in order to dispose of it at high rates when the evil day which the silverites are supposed to be hastening come But the Europeans are not getting all the gold that goes out of the Treasury. The statements of the Sub-Treasury and the New York banks show that nearly one-half of the gold drawn out of the Treasury goes into the coffers of the New York banks. Perhaps some of it finds its way to the carefully guarded stockings and strong boxes of thrifty individuals. Any one can deprive the Treasury of gold to the full amount of Treasury one, say it will not, and we, the wage-working journeymen are confident of the good results from such a bill. Experience is a great teacher, and the less small contractors among us the better off we are. Some twenty years past there were in our city many master builders, responsible and practical men, with large work-shops. But to-day where are they? Have our small contractors any shops? No; not as much as a semblance of one. Then where are our boys to be properly taught the trade? Who are our small contractors? Generally speaking, they are from the country, searcely waiting to brush the hayseed from their hair. Leaving the plow in its furrow, with their "kit of toois," comprising a saw and hatchet, they come to us as full-fledged builders, while scarcely able to hit a nail on its head.

And the same thing may be said of bricklayers and masons. They can hardly tell mortar from mud.

Our small contractors are generally not able to do a day's work in a workmanlike manner, cannot hold their jobs and yet we find them with "shingle" out, "Architect and Builder." Therefore I say too many subcontractors, They never pay union wages or hire union men, work over sight hours and scabe at that; not responsible; cannot give bonds; often not paying their help or for material used. Therefore I say tax them; yes, twice 100, that hey may leave and return to the plow and cornfield.

Any attempt of the powers that be to prohibit the playing of baseball or other innocent games on Sunday is a vicious usurpation. City people are penned up in shops, factories, stores and offices six days in the week and they have a natural right to enjoy themselves on the one free day as they see fit, provided they infringe not upon the equal liberty of others. On the other hand, our bucolic brethren are out of doors six days in the week and naturally prefer to read the papers, go to church, or otherwise exercise their mental faculities; and they have a right so to do. If it is possible to make men good and holy by statutes, the first duty of the Legislature is to reform its own members. Playing baseball on Sunday is better, more conducive to the morals and the welfare of the people than accepting boodle, riding on free passes or selling votes to the highest bidder.

HORSE DEALERS' DUEL.

Larry Kavanaugh and H. B. Carroll Fight

Lawrence Kavanaugh, until recently a member of the firm of Kavanaugh & Sloan, horse dealers at 12D North Broadway, and H. B. Carroll, also a former horse dealer in this city, had an exciting duel with revolvers in Chicago Monday morning. The affray took place in abaxter Park and was witnessed by a large number of stockmen, Several shots are said to have been fired by each of the men at short range, none of which, however, took effect.

The cause of the trouble is said to have grown out of a business transaction which took place between the men about three years ago, at which time both were engaged in buying and selling horses in this city, Carroll is said to have bought several horses from Kavanaugh, giving him in payment a draft for about 1800 on the firm of Crandall & Co., commission merchants of East Buffalo, N. Y. At that time Carroll ran an open account with Kavanaugh.

Kavanaugh sent the draft to East Buffalo for collection, but it is said to have come back protested. According to the slory of several employes in the office of Kavanaugh & Sloan, the reason the draft was not paid was because Carroll telegraphed Crandall & Co. not to do so as soon as they gained possession of the horses.

About this time Carroll left St. Louis and went to Topeka, Karn, where he resumed his occupation of horse trading.

After waiting neariy a year, during which time he valuly endeavored to realize the money on the draft, he invoked the aid of the law and had Carroll arrested and brought back to St. Louis on the charge of fraud. He failed to sustain the charge, however, and Carroll was released, after which he went to Chicago, where he has remained ever since, being connected with the firm of Marsh & Kenyon, horse dealers at the Union Stock Yards.

Last Saturday Kavanaugh went to Chicago on business. Sunday afternoon he met Carroll in Dexter Park and they had some controversy relative to the old trouble about the draft, Hot words passed, after which he was at once returned by Kavanaugh to meet him the next morning both men ap

PERSISTENT BURGLARS.

Burglars have made two visitations this week to the residence of Mr. Giles F. Filley, 1527 Lucas place. About 19 o'clock last night, while one of the ladies of the household was seated in the library, she heard a noise at the front door as if some one were trying to open it. Going to the door she discovered two men there. Both took to their heels immediately, without having the politiceness to answer her question as to what they wanted.

Monday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock a man forced his way into the stable and took a couple of coats belonging to the ecachiman, three horse and riding blankets and a saddle belonging to Mr. Charles H. Filley, The thief left his burning torch in the stable and ignited the straw. Had it not been for the opportune arrival of the private watchman the place would have been burned. After stamping out the fire the watchman started after a man he saw going down the alley. The fellow dropped a couple of bisnkets and made his escape with the coachman's coats and one horse blanket. The other blankets were recovered and the saddle was also found under a wagon in the alley.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS.

The bill to establish a pension fund for veteran school teachers, now before the Legislature, does not find favor with a certain number of St. Louis teachers. The principal opponents of the massure are said to be some of the High School teachers who receive large salaries and are not disposed to ascrifice 1 per cent for a pension fund. When the Ziegenhein Investigating Committee was here a few days ago the members were reached indirectly by the teachers not in favor of the pension bill, and the legislators were informed that there was a difference of opinion among those concerned in the measure. What effect these quiet lebbying methods may have remains to be seen. There is no doubt that the great majority of the teachers are in favor of the bill. The 1 per cent assessment will be voluntary, and the beneficiaries of the pension must be infirm and unable to continue in the service, and in the case of men they must have been in the schools for thirty years. Ladies are required to have a record of twenty years as teachers.

JOHN NORTON'S WILL.

Lawyer Tansey Couldn't Find It in Judge

Attorney George J. Tansey has received from his partner, Judge Laughlin, who is at present ill in Chicago, the key of the latter's desik, together with a letter containing instructions as to where the will of the late John W. Norton, which he says was drawn up by him some time ago, could be found. Mr. Tansey made a diligent search of the box in the desk as designated by Judge Laughlin as containing the will, but no such document was found. A search of all the other compartments in the desk also proved fruitless.

Mr. Tansey wired the result of his investigation to Judge Laughlin, and in reply received a message instructing him to let the matter drop until he returned to St. Louis, which would probably be in the course of a few days. Mr. Tansey will comply with this request.

Mr. Valle Reyburn will continue to act as administrator of Mr. Norton's estate until the will is probated.

DRUMMERS AS PEDDLERS.

A Proposed New Law, Which Will Be Vigorously Fought.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate at Jefferson City by Senator Williams which will impose a tax on every traveling man living in Missouri of from $to $40 per year, so the drummers claim.

The T. P. A.'s have fought such bills before in other States, and propose to fight this. The Williams bill proposes to tax drummers living in Missouri, as those not living in Missouri would be protected by the laws of the United States.

Mr. H. C. Grenner, president of the International Oil Works, is very much opposed to the bill and is fighting it as hard as possible and also urging his friends to fight it.

The bill as proposed by Senator Williams makes a change in existing laws. The obnoxious section reads as follows:

"Sec. 7211. Whoever shall deal in the selling of attents, patent rights, patent or other medicines. lightning rods, goods, wares or merchandise, except books, charts, maps and stationery, by going from place to place to sell or to contract for the sale of the same, by sample or otherwise, whether the goods sold or contracted to be sold are delivered at the time of sale or to be delivered at some future day, is declared to be a peddler."

A vigorous fight will be made against the measure.

The conductor kept the ticket, and at Helleville threw Tissera's grips from the train and, with the assistance of the brakeman and colored porter, put off Tissera and turned him over to a policeman. In the scuffle Tissera lost $100, with which he wanted to pay his way to Evansville, ind. At police headquarters he was released. They received judgment in Justice Sheahan's court a few days ago for the full amount, and, although they were pleased with their victory, they were the more incensed at Mr. Roth because he had kept them out of their due at a time when they were cut of employment in a strange city and in need of money. They say that Mr. Roth punishes his employes for every infraction of a code of petty rules. According to their story, a cook named Joseph Deschaseaux failed to take off his hat while he was in the office of the hotel and he was fined $22, the salary due him. He threatens to bring suit.

Eight hours later, howerer, as two women were tidying the room, the supposed corpse blew the linen away and raised herself up in bed. The two women were terribly frightened, and in their hasty retreat both tumbled down stairs, and are now suffering from slight injuries as well as shock. Some time elapsed before any one else could be induced to enter the house, but eventually several persons went in together and found the woman still, sitting up in bed. She was exceedingly weak, but she is now doing well, and there is every likelihood of her recovery. An extraordinary affair is reported fro ons at the Capital-The Ride on Director Hequemborg's Special Pull-subject were pressed, consent to take children into the kindergartens at 5 years; but if this were done, the committee would want a mill added to the tax levy for school purposes. This addition would yield $20,000, while the extra expense involved in taking care of the additional number of children would be about $100,000, but the board would be able to utilize the change. Still, if the addition to the levy cannot be granted, the Legislative Committee is not hankering for the care of the bairns. As to other subjects now under legislative attention, the Legislative Committee has some well-defined views—principally to the effect that no legislation at all will about meet the requirements of the situation. The committee certainly don't want the Spencer bill passed, nor its senatorial counterpart, introduced by Mr. Klene. This, the committee says, would throw board affairs quite into politics, and such a calamity should be staved off by all means. But the committee makes a slight exception in favor of Mr. Lancaster's bill providing for a $5.00 President of the board. It cancused last night on this subject in, Senator Lancaster's room, and Messrs. Brockman, Holthaus, Ulrich, Collins and Cudmore voted to have it favorably reported, and Messrs. Hickman, Huttig, Bus and Walt adversely; Mr. Troll being excused from voting because he is soon to retire from the board. Mr. Lancaster will, therefore, urge the measure to passage. therefore, urge the measure to passage, and the impression around here last night was that Mr. Brockman is already in active was that Mr. Brockman is already in active training for the first $5,000 Presidency of the board. It is argued that a great big prosperous corporation like the Board of President and Directors of the St. Louis Public Schools is entitled to a salaried executive, and should not be left for a moment to the inexperienced discretion of a staff of understrappers, but should have a regular executive head. The St. Louis party came up in the Longview, a special Fullman furnished by Director Hequemborg, and had as guests Supt. Long. Attorney Charles B. Stark, Secretary Player, Assistant City Counselor W. P. Macklin, Principal Geo. T. Murphy and M. B. O'Reilly. Louis Caesar was with the delegation as caterer and commissary. After dinner at the Madison, the committee and guests were piloted to the Capitol, and after a brief delay Representative Tatum gathered them all into his committee-room and summoned those of his colleagues who were about. A half hour was spent in consultation, and then President Brockman and Attorney Stark went before the House Committee on Education, and the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments, and argued on the reorganization bills and on the admission of children at 5 years to the effect stated. Nothing was said officially about the teachers' pension fund bill, but Supt. Long, and Principal Murphy stated in private that with the exception of a few high-salaried teachers in the High School, who were reluctant about giving up so large a net sum as 1 per cent of their annual salaries would amount to, the teachers were almost a unit for the measure. It was informally decided to secure from the teachers a formal expression of their views of the measure and have it on file here within a few weeks. Mr. Murphy stated that one division of the Society of Pedagogy had already, on last Saturday, almost unanimously indorsed the bill. The formal part of the Legislative Saturday, almost unanimously indorsed the bill. The formal part of the Legislative finished before supper last evening, but the caucus referred to was held after nightfall. The members of the delegation spent the evening in pleasant association with members of the Assembly, and left on the members of the Assembly, and left on the early morning train well satisfied with the prospective results of their visit. The St. Louis members showed them every customary attention, and, indeed, most of the members of the delegation seemed capable within reasonable limitations, of taking care of themselves.

Heavy Gales Retard the Passage of New York Liners.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 6.—For the past week strong eastarly winds have prevailed, and since Friday last there has been a succession of gales which have raised heavy sees compelling the coasting steamers to seek shelter in various ports. Eastward bound steamships from America have been meeting with headwinds and heavy gales from the east. The British steamship Cephalonia, Capt. Beccomba, of the Cunard Line, which left Boston on January 28 for Queenstown and Liverpool is thirty hours overdue and is not yet signalled. The White Star Liner Majestic, Capt. Parsell, which left New York January 20, clearing the bar at Sandy Hook at 10:82 a. m., to have equalled her record should have passed Daunis Rook at about 3 p. m. yesterday, and consequently is about thirty-one hours overdue.

OVERDUE FROM HAVRE.

day, and consequently is about thirty-one hours overdue.

OVERDUE FROM HAVRE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The French Line steamer La Gascogne, now three days overdue from Havre, has not yet been sighted. The wind is blowing from the northwest very strongly, and although it is clear overhead the intense cold of the atmosphere causes a vapor like fog to rise over the water, the result being that the observers at Fire Island and Sandy Hook can see but a short distance off shore. La Gascogne, therefore, could only be reported when close to Sandy Hook unless the weather moderates.

Last night was one of the coldest ever experienced here. The thermometer at 6 a.m. registered 5 degrees below zero. The Kerr Line fruit steamer Argonaut from Jamaica reached Quarantine her hull decks, rigging and spars completely covered with ice. Capt. McGillivray stated on passing winter quarter shoals he ran suddenly into cold weather. The thermometer fell rapidly and the spray which flew aboard quickly coated the decks and rigging with ice several inches in thickness. The crew of the vessel suffered greatly from the cold and only with the greatest caution managed to get about the decks.

LIKE A COMET.

Strange Light Seen in the Southern Sky

DESLOGE, Mo., Feb. 6.—The people of this town were very much excited at the appearance of a singular light Monday night. About 7:30 p. m. some one noticed a singular light on the southern horizon. The light was in one long straight shaft and stood at an angle of about 23 degs., and had the appearance of being one foot wide and about fifty feet long. The light differed from the moon, which was dimly shining through a misty cloud, the light being of a very red color. It would glow with the radiant heat of a hot iron, them would fade almost to obscurity. Altogether it made light visible for forty-live or fifty minutes. No one here seems to understand the strange phenomenon.

STARVATION IN OHIO.

in a Terrible Plight.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6.—"Two hundred and twenty-five families, averaging five persons to a family, are threatened with starvation," was the message conveyed to Gov. McKinley by a committee of three men of Rendville, Perry County. These 1,125 people are exhausted from want of food and are suffering from the cold, having no shoes and clothing. The only mine in the region and the one where the mainstays of these families were employed has been shut down.

Mayor Wells, who owns a general store, stated he had given credit to the extent of $7,000. Local aid had been exhausted and it was found necessary to appeal to the Governor.

WHAT ONE "POP" WANTS.

an Oklahoma Reformer Who Thinks Asking Is No Harm.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Feb. 6.—A memorial has been introduced in the territorial Legislature by a Populist, calling upon Congress to reduce the salary of the President, Congressmen, Senators and all other Federal officers one-third. Bills were introduced prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the territory under $500 fine; one compelling theatrical companies to show everything advertised, and another one to divide "M" County into three counters. This latter bill will doubtless inaugurate a county seat war.

FIVE YEARS' RESIDENCE REQUIRED. So There Will Be a General Re-registra

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 6.—There will be a general re-registration of the voters of Michigan within the next fitty days. This was determined upon at a cancus of the Ropenium of the State who voted at that election, by declaring that no foreign born person can vote until after they have become full citisens by five years' residence, a re-registration is deemed imperative. Persons who voted on their first papers last November will find themselves disfranchised until they become full citisens. The number who will be thus disfranchised is variously estimated, but it will be a very large one.

The Telephone Bill.

Quite a little opposition to the passage of the telephone bill in its present form developed when the measure was being discussed before the Council Committee on Public Improvements Tuesday night. The opposition was supposed to represent the Single Tax League of the city.

Judge J. A. J. Shuitz, Thomas Ward, Clark H. Sampson and M. Greenwood, Jr., spoke in favor of the bill. Sampson and M. Greenwoon, gr., sconsidering the bill.

Some time was also spent in considering the bills providing for the repeal of the ordinances establishing McPherson ayene and Westminster place from King's highway to Union bonievard, but failed to reach any decision.

SMUGGLER SUE WAH.

St. Joseph Police Tracing the China-

st. Joseph. Mo., Feb. 6.—The police claim to be on the track of the burglars who stole the goods found hidden in the laundry and opium joint of Sue Wah oh Edmond street. Arrests will follow as soon as the men can be located. When the place was raided the police found goods valued at $4,000 or $5,000. There were gold and silver watches, clocks, diamond pins and earrings, gold rings, chains and bracelets, knives, revolvers, clgars, spectacles, operaglasses, slik and satin goods, hats, gloves, shoes, slik handkerchiefs and mufflers, clothing of all kinds and half a wagon load of fur goods. Along with these was found about 20 ounces of opium, packed in six-ounce boxes, and evidently smuggled. Sue Wah is still in the county jail and refuses to make a confession. While there have been a large number of burglaries in the city during the past few months, the articles stolen were not generally of the class found in the opium den, and the police believe that hany of the goods have been stolen in other cities and shipped here. All the trunks found in the place have been unpacked and the array of goods disclosed was astonishing.

FLOUR MEN AT WAR.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 6.—The three great flour mill companies of the Northwest are embroiled in a war of prices that promises to bring the commodity down to a figure that, from the standpoint of the miller, will be ruinous. The Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mill Company, Limited, announces a cut of 15 cents a barrei to meet reductions by its competitors, the Washburn-Crosby Company and the Northwestern Consolidated Milling Company.

The Washburn Crosby people claim the Pillsbury concern is endeavoring to force them into a combination to maintain prices at a uniform figure considerably higher than those now quoted. They assert they will not yield to the English syndicate that controls these mills, and a cut below $\mathbf{S}$ is expected before the week is out.

Reductions made in jobbling prices in the last two weeks amount to 30c a barrel. The trade is further demoralized by a reduction of 5 cents a hundred in freight from Minneapolis to the seaboard made this week.

GEN. SICKLES' SUIT.

A Friendly Proceeding for the Partition of His Father's Estate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Gen. Dan E. Sickles has just brought suit at New Rochelle for the partition of his father's large estate. The heirs are the General ismesti, who is the only child of his father's first marriage, and there children of his father's second marriage, Mrs. George Mead, Mrs. Thomas Quinn and Mrs. James Dinham. It is a friendly suit, and the bringing of it at this time is caused by the coming of age of Mrs. Dinham, the youngest of the heirs. The amount involved its about $250,000, invested in twenty parcels of land, including 300 acres at New Rochelle. The General's father died in 1887 and a good part of the property has been held ever since. Mrs. Sickles died a few years after her husband. She was 33 years younger than he. The heirs agreed that Mrs. Sawyer Sickles should have the income of the property until she died and that as soon as she was dead and the youngest of her children was of age they would divide the estate by a friendly suit. Gen. Sickles is at present in Washington.

PEARL RIVER GANG.

Band of Desperadoes Broken Up in Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—The combined action of the Mississippi and Louisiana authorities has finally broken up a most desperate gang of robbers. This gang operated in both of these States, and met on Pearl River, in the extreme southeastern part of Louisiana. The country there is wild and sparsely settled, with little communication with the reat of the world, and has been the headquarters of outlaws for more than a century. Honey Island, on Fearl River, has been the refuge of counterfeiters, murderers, and other desperadoes, and the condition of society there is very primitive. It was in this county that Eugene Bunch, the train robber, lived, having acquired such control over the people as to be a king among them. He arranged his various raids on the railroads here and moved on them from his citadel. It was only when the express companies, after being frequently plundered, went to great expense a couple of years ago and spent money liberally in winning over his lieutenants that they were able to hunt him down and kill him. Although with the death of Bunch the robberles ceased, robbery has been carried on there systematically by a gang in the very part of Washington parish where the great train robber lived. Pike and Marion counties, Mississippi and Washington parish, Louisiana, have been kept in a state of terror by the gang, and stores and private houses were plundered. Franklin, La., Osyka, Magnolia, China Grove, Dexter, and Tylertown, Miss., were some of the towns visited by the robbers.

The citizens who were thus plundered determined several weeks ago to adopt the policy of the railroads and break up the grang. They hired for this purpose "Col." Hobgood, who was Bunch's lieutenant in his train-robbing days, and who is understood to have betrayed and sold his chief to the express companies. Hobgood himself has been in jail on several charges, and has been on intimate terms with most of the criminals of that section, and wasthought to be the man for this job. He joined the gang. They hired for thi

The raid against the robbers, which began on Friday, has been kept up ever since.
One of the leaders of the gang, Ben Magres is still at large, and there are probably half a dozen more members of it to be captured.

NEW ENGLAND'S RAHA AVIS.

Sulloway of New Hampshire Comes Out for Silver.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—A special from Nashua, N. H., says: Cyrus A. Sullowsy, who was elected as a Republican to the new House of Representatives as the successor of Henry W. Blair, has come out for silver. He enjoys the distinction of being the only member of the New England delegation who has yet taken a stand opposed to the present currency creed of the East.

Mr. Sulloway was nominated and elected last fall, it is said, against the wishes of Senator Chandler. He declared in an interview that he is for sliver coinage, is a bimetallist, that he likes greenbacks and considers them "like no other money on God's foot stool." He is opposed to a foreign loan and thinks that Europe's envy of our natural wealth of precious metals is the cause of the present trouble.

Mr. Sulloway was a greenbacker in the seventies, a wugwump in 1896 and since has been a Republican leader in the Legislature, a position which he owes to his acknowledged talents as a fighter and an orator.

SENATOR BRICE'S PLAN.

$75,000,000 for Its Pacific Claim.

$75,000,000 for Its Pacific Claim.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 6.—A local paper has the following from its Washington correspondent: Senator Brice is convinced that a proposition from the Government to take a certain amount of money, say $75,000,000, for its claim against the Pacific Railroads, would be accepted by the various companies interested. Since the defeat of the Reilly bill in the House Saturday, the Senator believes that this is the most plausible and the most feasible outcome of this long and serious difficulty. It will be remembered that Representative Turner of Georgia Saturday afternoon proposed such an amendment to the Reilly bill, but the House refused to consider the amendment. Senator Brice says that such an arrangement would have to be made with due regard to the different companies controlling the bond-aided Pacific railroad system. Each section of the road is controlled by a different company, and neither he nor anyone else is authorized to make an agreement with the Government on the part of all companies concerned. Still, he says, he is confident that the Union Facific company and a number of its immediate connecting lines would be glad enough to enter into such an arrangement with the Government and to offer their proportionate amount of the full sum settled upon. The Senator says that according to his idea this is the best way out of it for the Government. The sum of sum settled upon. The Senator says that according to his idea this is the best way out of it for the Government. The sum of $75,000,000 is mentioned because that is about the amount of the principal owed to the Government by all of the roads of the middle Pacific system.

Of course in accepting such a plan the Government would completely throw away immense sums of interest which it has paid upon these Government bonds, but the outlook for regaining the full amount due it is now well nigh hopeless.

BADLY BURNED.

Misfortune of a Man Crazed by the Crimes of His Sons. BROUGHTON, Ill., Feb. 6.—Clem Porter, and old citizen of this neighborhood, has been insane for a week or two and yesterday got his hands and feet into the stove and burned them badly. Two sons of his have lately been sent to prison for burglary, and this trouble, combined with old age and extreme poverty, are supposed to be the cause of his derangement. As the Southern Illinois Asylum for the Insane at Anna has been burned, it is not known what to do with him.

HE LOVES HER

Miss Kate Noon Annoyed by a Man She Doesn't Know.

Comes to Her Home and Violently Rings the Door Bell.

SHE THINKS HE IS CRAZY AND HAS HAD HIM LOCKED UP.

The Prisoner Gave His Name as Hugh McDonough-Claims to Have Known Miss Noon Since They Were Children -Dr. Priest to Examine Him.

A handsomely dressed woman, accompanied by a gentleman, both of prepossessing appearance, visited the office of the Prosecuting Attorney and asked to have a warrant issed for a man whom the woman claimed was persistently disturbing her peace. She said her persecutor had for a month been in the habit of ringing her door bell several times a day for no cause and that he followed her whenever she left her home. Prosecuting Attorney Johnson did not think the evidence sufficient upon which to issue a warrant, but referred her to a Justice of the Peace.

The woman, accompanied by her escort, then went to the office of Justice William J. Hanley of the Eighth District and told him the story of her troubles. She said her name was Miss Kate Noon and that she lives with her sister at 1039 North Leffingwell avenue. The man who persisted in annoying her, she said, is Hugh McDonough, and lives, she thought, at 1104 North Eighth street. In her opinion the man was crazy. She said she never set eyes on him until about a month ago, when she went to the front door, in answer to a ring of the doorbell.

"That man was standing there," she said,

'As I had never seen the man before in y life," continued Miss Noon, "I was at a ss to understand what he meant, and nen he commenced to talk in a rambling way about having gone to school with me and my having sent for him to come to see me a number of times, I got scared and shut the door in his face. All the time he was talking to me he eyed me in a most un-repeatedly and on my answering the door bell he has said virtually the same thing repeatedly and on my answering the doorbell he has said virtually the same thing and acted in the same strange manner.

"He told one of my neighbors recently that either he or myself would have to get off the earth. I have noticed him hanging about our house and on several occasions he has followed me in the street. His actions have greatly alarmed me, for if he is crazy, and I think he is, there is no telling what he might do."

Upon hearing her story Judge Hanley issued a warrant for McDonough's arrest and placed it in the hands of Constables Ketchum and Evers. They located him and brought him before Judge Hanley, who subjected him to a rigid examination.

The Judge says the man's conversation and manner bore out Miss Noon's opinion that he is mentally unbalanced. He told a rambling story of having known Miss Noon "mately from childhood, having gone to which her, and that the acquaintance which had been kept up in after years had ripened into love. He freely admitted that his love was returned. He said that she had sent for him to call on her, but that when he replied to her summons she falled to receive him.

he replied to her summons she failed to receive him.

When he first appeared before Judge Hanley he said his name was Hugh McDonough, but a few minutes later he said his name was Flynn. When asked by the Judge how he happened to give two different names, he replied: "Oh, I changed my name to Flynn last week."

From the man's conversation and manner Judge Hanley considered himself justified in holding him and accordingly committed him to the Four Courts. The Judge also sent a

The prisoner is said to have objected to his arrest and made a desperate resistance while being conveyed to the Four Courts.

Miss Noon said that during the time she has been annoyed by McDonough she had applied to the police several times for relief, but they had paid no attention to her request.

out they had paid no attention to her request.

Dr. Priest examined McDonough this afternoon. McDonough told the physician that he was married to Miss Noon by Cardinal Gibbons several weeks ago, and then gave a rambling account of how he had been drugged by his mother. Dr. Priest soon discovered that the poor fellow is crasy and sent him to the Insane Asylum. His mother lives at 1104 North Eleventh street.

ME AT PUBLIC EXPENSE.

BILL INTRODUCED TO CULTIVATE ANTI-TOXINE IN ILLINOIS.

SPRINGFIELD. Ill., Feb. 6.—A bill for an appropriation of $26,000 to establish a plant in which to cultivate at public expense anti-toxine, the new German anti-diphtheria serum, was introduced in the State Senate to-day by Senator Brand. The bill provides for a plant under the care of the State Board of Health. Twenty thousand dollars of the amount asked for in the bill is for a plant, and the remainder is for buying animals and other necessaries to be used in the manufacture of anti-toxine. Mr. Brand is a physician, and says he has used anti-toxine on twenty-two patients who had diphtheria, and not one died. Four of his children had diphtheria and he sent for anti-toxine. Two died before the remedy arrived. The other two recovered under the anti-toxine treatment.

SENSATION CAUSED BY THE ARREST OF A HUTCHINSON MAIN.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.—A special from Hutchinson, Kam., says: W. Atmore Woodrow of this city is under arrest, charged with forgery, on complaint of G. C. Charter. The affair has created a sensation, as both parties are highly connected in social and church circles, Woodrow being for years the leader of the M. E. Church. He gave bond for appearance Friday.

long term of years. They want to have a modern hotel building on the site of the Merchanis.

The defendants to the bill are Sarah O. Walton, the St. Louis Trust Company, trustee under the wil of Patrick Yore, deceased, and under a contract of July 10, 183, and Sophie A. Yore.

Patrick Yore died July 14, 1889, leaving among other legacies to his daughter. Sarah O. Walton, an annuity of $720. By his will Yore directed that his real estate be held intact. In good order and insured. His children, James, Augustus and Charles Yore and Margaret McCord were made heirs to the remainder.

The real estate can not be sold until the four heirs are all dead. The affairs of the estate have been settled as far as possible under the will. The Merchants' Hotel fronts 116 feet on the west side of Twelfth street and runs back 100 feet on Olive street.

NEW BREED OF DOGS.

Terrier Will Be Exhibited at the New York Bench Show.

A new breed or dog from Boston is to be one of the interesting exhibits at the Bench Show of the Westminster Kennel Club in Madison Square Garden this month. It is known as the Boston terrier, and is growing in popularity among dog-lovers. One of the Boston clubs is especially interested in its breeding.

English terrier. These terriers, it has been shown, readily produce their own kind, a test which has been applied to all the varieties of terriers in existence. The Boston terrier well deserves its name, being a great ratter and bearing all the terrier characteristics. It is an attractive dog, quick, plucky, intelligent and symmetrical, and combines strength with grace and style.

About twenty pounds seems to be the weight most approved. The following description and standard have been adopted by the Boston Terrier Club:

The general appearance of the Boston terrier is that of a smooth, short-coated, com-JUDY.

pactly built dog of moderately low stature. The head should indicate a high degree of intelligence, and should be in proportion to the dog's size; the body rather short and well knit; the limbs strong and finely turned, no features being so prominent that the dog appears badly proportioned.

The dog conveys an impression of determination, strength and activity and style of a high order and carriage easy and graceful.

FLAMES IN A LODGING-HOUSE.

Window in His Night Shirt.

Fire, caused by an over-heated stove tarted at 4:30 a, m. in the furnished-room started at 4:30 a, m. in the furnished-room house of Fred Linderman, 1025½ Chesfinut street. The furniture was damaged $300 and the building $200. Payton Giles, colored, was arrested about 6 a. m. on complaint of Ernst Banerman and Phillip Hogan, two roomers at the place, who saw Giles in the house while the fire was in progress. Linderman made a statement exonerating Giles. Linderman said that he jumped out of a second-story window when the fire broke out without waiting to dress himself and went to McDermot's saloon, near by, and sent the negro back to the house for his clothes. The negro was held until the matter could be investigated.

Railway Postal Clerks

The railway postal clerks of the Missouri association, at a called heeting, passed resolutions endorsing the efforts of Senators McMillan and Vilas to ebtain legislation, by an amendment to the Post Office appropriation bill, locking to the reorganization bill, locking to the reorganization and improvement of the service.

The action of the Hoh. F. M. Cockrell, Senator from Missouri, is commended, and he is asked to be resent the needs of the association and urge the necessity for some action in Tayor.

Fair Prospect of Reduced Rentals for Telephones.

Favorable Action by the House on the Walton Measure.

DURANT'S PLEA PAILED TO MOVE THE COMMITTEE.

Protection From the Greed of Foreign Insurance Companies-Memorial Read in the Senate - Firemen's Pension Fund-Electric Light Charges.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.-In he House to-day the Walton substitute for the House to-day the Walton substitute for all pending bills, reducing the rates of public telephone rental in St. Louis to $50, in Kansas City to $45, and in private residences to $50, was favorably reported by Committee on Private Corporations. Substitute adopted and $50 copies ordered printed. The same committee favorably reported a bill prohibiting officers and directors of corporations voting themselves salaries out of proportion to the business.

House bill 25, the oleo bill, was up for engressment, and was vigorously attacked engrossment, and was vigorously attacked by Moran and Gurney as victously class legislation. They succeeded in getting it laid over for a special order for next Wednesday morning.

Manager George F. Durant, of the Bell Telephone Company, visited the capital very quietly—almost clandestinely—yesterday, and last evening made a brief address before the House Committee on Private Corporations against any reduction in telephone rates. His advent—was unknown to more than a half dozen members, and he did not put in an appearance about the Capitol at all until after nightfall. The committee, as has already been announced, had consolidated House bills 157, 207 and 216 in one measure, which, after all, is practically a copy of the Walton bill, and Mr. Durant was allowed, before anyone else knew that the committee was in session, to make his little talk. He told the committee that the Bell Telephone Company could not do business for less than its present rates, especially in St. Louis, and he wanted them to understand that the whole matter was within the control of the Municipal Government, as far as St. Louis is concerned. He was asked how many telephones his company has in operation in St. Louis, and replied that there were now about 3,800; and in reply to another query stated that the commany was capitalized in St. Louis at about $450,000. His argument was very mild, and, indeed, he did not seem to care a great deal about any action that the committee or the House might take. After he had gone the committee made a few figures, and concluded that if 3,800 telephones and accompanying equipment costing $450,000 were now in operation in St. Louis the company was receiving $100 per annum on what cost, in gross, only $104; and that a company enjoying such a margin of, profit as 'that could well afford to share a little of its prosperity with the people; and so the bill was ordered favorably reported. This result, what there is of it, is very largely due to the personal exertions of Farwell Walton, who seems determined to pre or other conicer of every car company, or corporation, other than a railroad company, operating a line of railroad, and every individual owning any stock cars, furniture cars, fruit cars, poultry cars, tank cars, and any other kind of cars, shall return annually to the State Auditor a sworn statement of the milesge made by their cars over the several lines of road in this State, together with the number of cars engaged in the service and the total and average number of miles traveled by each. And it is made the duty of the State Board of Equalization to make a computation of the number of cars required to make this milesge in the case of each company. Upon this computation an assessment of 2 per cent shall be levied, in lieu of all other assessment. It is estimated by the Governor, Mr. Avery, and others who have examined into this subject, that several millions of dollars' worth of this property in Missouri has hitherto escaped taxation altogether. It is now proposed to get it on the tax lists, and permit the State to realize thereon.

altogether. It is now proposed to get it on the tax lists, and permit the State to realize thereon.

Senator Wurdeman, of St. Louis County, very severely taxed the patience of his colleagues—and, Indeed, of all the members of the Senate—yesterday by his persistent efforts to kill the Lancaster anti-Sunday-barbering bill, with amendments. It did not suit Mr. Wurdeman's purpose to come out and say that he was opposed to the passage of such a measure and give his reasons, as did most of the other Senators, but he tried to accomplish the same results by indirections. There were other Senators who ridiculed the bill, and some who opposed it in perfectly serious vein; but Mr. Wurdeman merely offered amendment after amendment calculated to nullify any measure of similar intent, and would give no explanation. He did not succeed in killing the bill, but he did accomplish one very marked result—the waste of several hours valuable time that the Senate has, at this functure, a much better use for.

ing the Davidson Bill.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.—A sensational memorial was presented to the Senate this morning. It came from Warrensburg and Johnson County, and demands "protection from the importunate greed of foreign insurance companies doing business in this State and which have combined as a trust under the name of the Association of Fire Underwriters of Missouri to charge the people of this State excessive rates of fire insurance and deprive them entirely of its benefits." The petition recites the recent arbitrary advance in the rates in that county from 1. 1% and 1½ per cent to 2½ f and as high as five and ask per cent. rates it is charged that there is no competition in these rates and they demand that the Davidson bill in the House of Representatives, including fire insurance companies under the anti-trust law, be passed. The petition has about two hundred signatures appended.

The Committee on Corporations Other Than Railroads reported favorably Mr. Love's bill imposing a State tax of $1,000 on the manufacture of cigarettes.

The Committee on Internal Improvements reported adversely the Cape bill for reclassification of freight rates.

Dr. Pettijohn's stated that this recommendation was based on the statement of the railroad commissioners that the business of the railroads would not stand a reduction of rates.

An adverse report was also made on the bill offered by Young of St. Francois providing a penalty for the execution by railroad and mining companies of contracts for a day longer than eight hours. It was represented that such a contract would be unconstitutional and void, and that the companies would then rely on making contracts by the hour.

This was the first report made by the committee, and is accepted as clearly indicating its disposition to protect the railroad companies.

The Internal Improvements Committee reported favorably Mr. Murray's bill requiring that railroad employes shall give thirty days' notice of intention to strike and that railroad companies shall give their employes

Senator Peers introduced a bill providing for the election by the altorneys present of a special Judge in civil cases if the sitting Judge shall have been disqualified by an objection in writing. It is provided that not less than fifty disinterested attorneys shall take part in each election.

Senator Davisson introduced a joint and concurrent resolution for the submission of a constitutional amendment providing that the Fund Commissioners shall sell 3 per cent bonds for the redemption of the certificates of indebtedness held by the Board of Education, and that the proceeds of such sale shall be apportioned to the counties of the State for school purposes according to the per capita of school children.

Senator Lyman's bill providing for turning over the Fulton Insane Asylum to the Homeopathic School of Medicine was reported adversely by the Committee on Public Health. It was indefinitely postponed.

Senator Mott called up his bill, No. 23, giving Justices of the Peace jurisdiction of tax suits. He recommended indefinite postponement. Carried.

WHITE MAN CHASED A NEGRO. H. L. McGee Attempted to Carve a Union Station Porter.

Much excitement was created at the Union Station about 8 p. m. Tuesday night by a white man chasing a young colored man through the crowded waiting-room with a knife. Special Officer Dan O'Connor entered the room and the negro ran to him and appealed for protection. The officer caught the negro's pursuer and after a struggle subdued him. An investigation disclosed that the white man was H. L. McGee of 2107 Olive street. The negro was Howard Davis, who is employed in the toilet-room at the station. McGee, who appeared to have been drinking, violated one of the rules of the place and the attendant spoke to him about it. This angered McGee and he made drinking, violated one of the rules of the place and the attendant spoke to him about it. This angered McGee and he made after the negro with a knife. placed by a modern building of more generous proportions. This report was confirmed by the application of the heirs to the Circuit Court for permission to lease the property for a long term of years to parties who will erect a handsome improvement on it. This will be of considerable importance to the Twelith street owners as it will enhance the value of the adjoining property and will doubtless cause other owners to make similar improvements. Plans for the erection of a very handsoms and artistic building for the northeast corner of Twelfth and Olive streets were prepared for the Turner Building Company before the recent financial troubles. The company, however, decided to delay the erection of the building until the financial panic was over, and now that confidence is restored and business has assumed proportions more nearly normal it is extremely probable the Turner Building Company's project will be revived and carried out.

CHRIS VON DER AHE IS MAD.

HE WAS ARRESTED FOR SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Chris Von der Ahe, the base ball magnate, was highly indignant when he learned that Excise Commissioner Bell had included his saloon on Natural Bridge road and Vandeventer avenue in the list of those running without a license.

"It was an outrage," said Chris Wednesday, "for I had sent my book-keeper down town Tuesday to renew my license, and he had done so and was carying the license around in his pocket when the deputy came to the saloon. I explained the situation to him, but he refused to be reasonable, and in order to satisfy him it was necessary for me to accompany him to the station. There I secured bond, and when my book-keeper turned up with the license all was explained."

Weather Bureau Says St. Louis is Going to Catch It.

Will Be the Worst Blizzard That Has Come This Winter.

HEAVY SHOW, VIOLENT WINDS AND PREEZING TEMPERATURE PREDICTED.

Expected to Beach St. Louis This Evening — Will Extend Over a Vast Area and Delay Reliroad Trains.

A blizzard is coming. The Weather Bureau predicts that late this afternoon or tonight a fierce storm, with violent wind, heavy drifting snow and freezing temperature will swoop down upon this city and all the country round about.

It is to be the severest cold wave of the winter. The weather people say it is likely to cause almost unprecedented interruption to railroad and all other kinds of travel. Storm signals were displayed from the Federal Building at noon, immediately upon receipt of the following bulletin from Washington:

TURNED FROM MEXICO.

T. J. Prosser, the well-known railread contractor, has just returned from a five weeks' trip to the City of Mexico and various other sections of the southern republic. His mission down there was to inspect some of the harbors on the east coast which the Mexican Government is about to improve. As a result his business while in the republic was largely with persons close to the administration. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Mr. Prosser said:

"While there is a strong war sentiment in Mexico. I am satisfied there will be no war, as I was so informed by an official very close to President Diaz; his name, of course, I am not at liberty to disclose. Inasmuch as the contracts we sought to secure, and are still seeking, are government contracts, we of course were anxious to know about the war scare. The information I am giving you is what was given us.

"While in the City of Mexico I stopped at the Hotel Jardin and had a room right next to the Guatemalan Minister, whom I met several times. I was there at the time the demonstration was made upholding Diaz. I am satisfied that President Diaz is the one man for the place and think he should be kept at the head of the Government as long as possible. We were entertained at the Executive Mansion one day and were given the most courteous treatment, We were also shown along the coast in a government vessel and our intercourse was continually with officials. I think I am therefore in a position to speak authoritatively when I say there will be no war."

Mr. Prosser talked entertainingly several minutes on Mexico and its improvements. A portion of the great sewerage system is now completed, but he thinks it will take at least a year and a half to complete the ditch which is to carry the sewage out of the City of Mexico. When he was there the subject of electric street railways was being agitated. The City of Mexico has now a good street railway system, but the motive power is furnished by mules. good street railway system, but the motive

A GOOD STORY SPOILED.

NOT A WOMAN'S HAT, BUT TOO MUCH WHISKEY CAUSED YOST'S ARREST.

WHISKEY CAUSED YOST'S ARREST.

A morning paper is devoting considerable of its space daily in an effort to raise by subscriptions of a penny each from 500 men the amount necessary to pay the fine of Henry Yost, who was fined 50 in the First District Police Court for disturbing the peace at Hopkins' Pope's Theater. The alleged reason given for this action on the part of the paper is that Yost was ejected from the theater and arested because he refused to remove his hat while a lady sitting in front of him was wearing hers. This is a very fine story, but the trouble is the facts do not warrant it.

Col. Hopkins, the proprietor of the theater, and Judge Morris, who imposed the fine, are both of the impression that the newspaper is laboring under a misapprehension. Col. Hopkins is quite inclined to be offended at the course it has adopted.

"The public should understand," he said, "that all of this talk about a penny for principle is nonsonse. Each man should know that when he pays out his penny he is doing it for a man who acted like a hoodlum. This man Yost came into the theater Friday afternoon drunk. He took his seat among some ladies and children and kept his hat on. When the usher asked him to remove it he used the most indecent language. It was for this he was put out. He came back later and assaulted the special officer who ejected him and we had him arested.

"There was no suggestion or him from him about any of the ladies having their hats on. He might have kept his hat on had he been decent. I should merely have asked him to remove it, and if he refused to do so politicy let it go, but after his obscene language it became our duty to put him out."

William C. De Lacey, an alleged private detective, and Lee Buckner, who were arrested Wednesday night at the residence of Buckner's sister, 90! Morgan street, on suspicion of being implicated in the manufacture of counterfeit dollars and half dollars, were brought to the Four Courts about 10 a. m. securely handcuffed. Chief Desmond put in a couple of hours questioning and cross-questioning the prisoners.

De Lacey was arrested on information furnished the police by Mollie and Lee Buckner, and when arrested two counterfeit half dollars were found in his pocket, while a half dozen molds for dollars were found in the house. Some of the molds were in the stove oven in the process of baking. The Buckners claimed that De Lacey came to the house during the absence of the brother, who was in New York, and engaged a room. Little was known of him, but he always appeared to have money.

About ten days ago, Buckner claims, he saw De Lacey make several half-dollar plaster of paris molds and saw him afterwards make some money with these molds. Buckner knew what De Lacey was doing, he claims, and he also says he told De Lacey at the time that he would get into trouble if he did not stop such work. The work continued, however, and so Buckner notified the police. The pelice did not make the arrest at once, but decided to wait for a better opportunity when they would find him with the unmistakable evidence of counterfeiting in his possession.

DE LACEY'S STORY.

De Lacey tells an entirely different story and on the strength of his statement Lee Buckner, the original informant, is being held by the police, charged with being a fugitive from justice from Chicago, De Lacey claims to be a detective and says he has done work for Chief of Police J. F. Farrell of Dayton, O., and Detective Tim McKeough of Chicago. In support of this statement letters were found in De Lacey's possession written by Chief Farrell and Detective McKeough. The correspondence was in regard to crooks, who were wanted by these officers for crimes. One letter in particular was in regard to Thomas Walsh, alias Smith, alias Browning, who was taken from the Work-house in this city to Chicago a few weeks ago to answer the charge of stealing $10,000 worth of Jewelry from J. G. Brethaner & Co. of that city. De Lacey claims that he was solely instrumental in turning Walsh over to the police of Chicago and in finding his part of the booty. In this case Chief Desmond admits that De Lacey claims he was still engaged in running down the other two men who were implicated in the Brethaner robbery. One of them, he says, is Buckner and the other, he alleges, is a man mamed N. S. Rood, who is now at Ypsilanti, Mich., and whose arrest is daily expected.

Ladies are especially opposed to it, and hold to re-establish the whipping post would simply be to make brutes of the men who do the punishing. It has been denounced as a step backward and as a relic of barbarism. Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton has tersely expressed her views on the subject in this way: "The man who whips a woman performs a brutal action. If he is whipped in return some one else becomes a brutal. Two wrongs do not make a right."

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage thinks the whipping post has some virtue. Says he:

"I do not believe in reviving obsolete customs, nor would I like to have lived in the times when the whipping post was in vogue, but there are occasions when the lash might accomplish what imprisonment does not. Imprisonment only helps to ruin men's health and morals without necessarily effecting reform, but the whip would most speedily bring the wife and child beater to a sense of his own degradation."

Miss Jeannette L. Gilder thinks that a term in State's prison is the proper punishment for wife-beaters instead of the whipping post, and there are others who hold similar opinions.

Serious Charges Against the Father by the Grandparents.

the Grandparents.

Little Ollie M. L. Jacob was not produced in Judge Valliant's court at 10 a. m. in response to the writ of habeas corpus issued at the suit of Frederick Jacob, her father. James and Mary Hagan, grand-parents of the child, and the respondents to the writ, produced instead a certificate of Dr. J. P. Flanders that the child is suffering from a severe attack of tonsilitis and that it would endanger her life to expose her to the present weather.

Judge Valliant set the hearing for Friday at 2 p. m. Meanwhile an effort will be made to compromise the matter out of court.

Attorney Peabody, representing the father, Attorney Peabody, representing the father, Attorney Rufus J. Delano, representing the respondents; W. H. Jacob of Pittsburg, brother of Frederick, and Ollie and Thomas Hogan, brothers of the deceased wife of Frederick Jacob, met at the office of Bentley & Feabody at 11:30 a. m. to talk the matter over.

The return to the writ made by the grand-parents is in substance as follows: The mother died on Nov. 3, 1894, Just prior to her decease she requested her parents to care for and protect the child, and, it is alleged, they took the child with the consent and permission of its father. The child is delicate. They have given it a good and comfortable home, with all moral influences and surroundings.

The father has never contributed to its support, according to the respondents, and he has no home in this city or means of properly carring for the child. It is charged that he is addicted to habitual drunkenness and is in the habit when drunk of using obsecte and abustive language to those about him and that he is in no way a fit person to have the care, custody, education and moral training of his child.

Upon a Sunday preceding Christmas last the response sets up, the father took the child to various places of low resort and gave her liquor and associated and consonted in her presence with negro demands that her father do not have her gare and custody. They are willing to assume the child's supp

In Missouri and Eight Neighborin States There Will Be Heavy Snow-The East and Great Britain Are Under the Weather.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 8.—The snow storm prevailing to-day threatens to result in a widespread bleckade. The weather bureau officials here give notice of probably heavy snow throughout nine States, accompanied by a severe cold wave to-morrow, with a high Northwest gale. The States named are Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana.

Several inches of snow fell here during the night, and the storm continued during the greater part of the day, a strong wind whirling drifts over street car tracks and crossings. All the morning suburban trains were delayed, the Illinois Central suburban traffic suffering the most severely. Cable and horse car lines were in trouble all day, the snow shovels and sweepers being unable to prevent frequent blockades.

MISSOURI AND ELSEWHERE.
KANSAS CITY Mo., Feb. 6.—The bliszard struck Kansas City at 9 o'clock this morning. Last night the temperature had moderated until the thermometer registered 30 degrees, but this morning the mercury started down the toboggan silde until at noon it had reached 10 above and Signal Officer O'Connor says it will go all the way from 10 to 15 below zero before midnight. Up to noon no interference to railroad traffic had been reported, but the prospects are good for a blockade.

ST JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 6.—A severe snow storm set in here early this morning, and has seriously impeded railroad and street car traffic. The storm is especially severe in Southern Nebraska and Northwestern Kansas, and traffic on the Grand Island railway is entirely suspended. Snow plows are at work, and it is hoped to have the line open by night.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—At 4 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 20 deg. below zero and at 9 o'clock 10 deg. below zero and at 9 o'clock 10 deg. below at the result of the cold.

TROY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The mercury was 18 deg. below zero at 3 a. m. At 3 a. m., near the river, it is 10 deg. below and in the hill districts 13 deg.

AUBURN, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The coldest weather of the season is being experienced here, the thermometer registering 12 degrees below zero during the night. A stiff Northwest wind, accompanied by light snow, has been blowing since yesterday morning. Wires are down in the city and business is practically suspended.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Thirtsen and three-tenths below zero was the record made at the Weather Bureau this morning, the lowest Buffalo record for February and with one exception the lowest temperature ever recorded here, that exception being the 25th of January, 1834, when the thermometer registered 13.6 below.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—This is the coldest day here since December 31, 1850, when the thermometer registered 6 degrees below zero, and the third coldest day on record since the weather bureau was established in 1870. The other two days colder than this were February 24, 1873, when the mercury dropped to 4 degrees below zero, and January 10, 1876, when it registered 6 below. To-day at 7 a. m. the weather bureau's thermometer, 300 feet above Broadway, registered 3 below. Since midnight when the thermometer read 7 degrees above, it fell steadily until sunrise. Then the mercury in the tube began to rise again. At 9 a. m. it stood at zero and at 10 a. m. read 2 above, with the prospect of a further rise.

Weather Clerk Day says that the coid snap will continue to-day and to-night, but on Thursday it will be warmer.

PHTESBURG, Pa., Feb. 6.—Intense coid weather has prevailed here for three days, the mercury registering below zero every day. Last night it dropped to 6 deg. below and at 8 o'clock it was 4 below. For the first time in many years both rivers are frozen over. The Allegheny is frozen solid from Oil City to Logan's Ferry, a distance of ninety miles. Heavy gorges are reported at several points, and grave fears are entertained of damage when the weather moderates. The usual shortage of natural gas has caused much suffering, and many families have returned to coal for heating purposes.

Bitterly Cold Weather Prevails at Both These Capitals.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Bitterly cold weather accompanied by snow storms prevails generally throughout Great Britain. For the first time in fourteen years the docks at Southampton are frozen over with thin ice. At Market Harbor the thermometer registered 4 degrees below zero. Several persons have been found frozen to death in the country. The railroad trains in Scotland and Wales are blocked by snow drits. The weather on the continent has also been very severe.

In Paris there were five deaths yesterday from the cold. As might be expected the weather which prevails in England is having a serious effect upon the training of the horses entered for the apring handleaps. This effect will be most seriously felt by the American horses belonging to Messrs. Judge Caldwell Hears Arguments in the Frisco Case.

Contract With the Wells-Fargo Co. May Be Changed.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST BY THE TRUST COMPANIES.

Is Claimed the Wells-Fargo Co. Is Not in Court-The Contract a Valuable Asset-The Receivers to Investigate.

Judge Caldwell in the United States Court listened to arguments for and against a modification of the contract between the Atchison system and the Wells-Fargo Express Co. The arguments arose out of a petition presented by the receivers of the Atchison asking Judge Caldwell to set a day to hear the representatives of the Express Co. on the burdensome character of the contract. The petition alleged that the contract was made Dec. 1, 1852, for five years, and by its terms, the Atchison and the roads controlled by it were to afford the express company facilities for their business. In return the express company was to pay 55 per cent of all gross receipts, and was to guarantee that this sum would amount to $150,000 per year. The receivers represented that President Valentine of the express company had requested them to submit to the court the desire of the Wells-Fargo Ce. for a modification of the contract.

IN COURT.

dent of the express company and the President of the road for five years. President Manvel believed that the earnings would be larger than the express company estimated they would be. He was steadfast, and the President of the express company came to his terms, but he first made an oral reservation if the contract proved unsatisfactory to the express company a modification might be asked. Mr. Pilisbury said the contract had been in operation only a few months when the Wells-Fargo company discovered that they would lose heavily, and the President, by cruel economy, managed to keep down the loss to $150,000. Mr. Pilisbury said that the loss would be $250,000 if $100,000 had not been saved on the wages of the company's employes. Mr. Pesk, speaking for the receivers of the Atchison, and that many difficulties were in the way of the modineston of the tentract exters.

MR. ROSSINGTON OBJECTS.

At this point Mr. Rossington, solicitor for the Union Trust Company, trustee for the foreclosed mortgage on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, arose and said: "I am instructed to resist any modification of this contract or any order locking toward a modification. I contend that this contract is part of the assets of the Atchison Company, and that the receivers have not jurisdiction over the court at company is not before the court, and cannot be brought before the court and have an ask to have it disaffirmed.

Mr. Rossington contended the court could not intrude between the contract, and bave caldwell insisted that the court did have such power. He said the Trust Company had very little interest in the contract. "What is the objection," asked the Judge, "to referring this matter to the receivers and letting them advise the court?"

Mr. Rossington, in reply, said: "We claim a beneficial interest in that contract. It must stand, and no court can overturn it unless on proof that fraud or false representations led up to the making of it. The court has no right to entertain this application."

Judge Caldwell: "He has. Cannot a railroad not in the hands of receivers modify a contract without calling in all of its mortingages?"

Mr. Rossington: "A railroad in the hands of receivers cannot modify a contract because it is a valuable asset, a'd in the control of the courts. As your honor knows, possession of the road will ultimately be in the hands of the trustee for the bondholders."

Judge Caldwell: "A general crediton has as

"Then they must go elsewhere. I can get new hands." "Take care!" said the man, threateningly.
"We're a desperate set."
"I am desperate, too," returned the manufacturer, rising tall and stern from his desk. "We have come to a pretty pass when workmen dictate to employers!" "Oh, papa, may I come in?" chied a soft voice at that moment, and Lillian Chase, the mill-owner's pretty daughter, came into the dull office like a stray sunbeam. The father turned to her with an indulgent dead mother's that he could not resist, but obediently made out a check.

"This must be the last," he said, warningly, as he gave it to her.

She laughed.
"Of course, poor boy," she said. "You always say that. Thank you. Good-bye." Wilfrid Bennet, the secretary, rose to open the door. Hitherto Lillian had not acknowledged his presence, but now she gave him a coquettishly friendly look from under her big plumed hat, and, manlike, his spirits were raised at once, although he knew from past experience that she was only playing with him.

As he assisted her into her pretty dog-cart, he missed her groom.
"Where is Bob?" he asked.
"I didn't want him."
"Why?"
"He is such a nuisance."
"But you ought to take him for protection," he said, somewhat authoritatively. "It isn't safe for you to drive into this town alone. Miss Chase.
"Indeed! And who made you my guardian?" she coldly asked.

Alas for the pleasant feeling between them! It vanished so rapidly that one questioned if it had existed.
"I must naturally feel some interest in the safety of my employer's daughter."

the secretary returned, by tones as cold as the girl's own. "The workingmen of the country are desperate just now, and I didn't like the way Jones looked when he saw your father give you the money. Miss Chase." "Am I to go without just to please common workingmen?" she asked, indignantly. "They will find that I am not to be dictated to." Well, I have warned you. Don't return Bennett nodded.

The secretary's manner was a little cold. He knew the girl's power over him, and was determined to hold himself aloot.

"It was nothing," he protested. "As for my being on the spot—when I found you had not returned I strolled down toward the river to look for you."

Wilfrid's face flushed with surprise and emotion.

"Does Miss Chase know of this arrangement?" he asked.

"Why, of course. I told her I wished it, wilfrid," the old man continued, putting his hand on the other's shoulder. "I do not want to influence you in any way, but I have sometimes suspected and hoped that you and Lilian-you understand?"

"The necklace, which I understood was purchased for this very party. You have forgotten to put it on."

"No. I changed my mind about wearing it," she said, with a touch of her old careless manner. Then, after a moment's healtation, while a bluad crept over her face she continued in a low voice. movement from causing further injury to the aimost severed nerve action of the spinal cord.

Bahen, while attempting a tackle, was thrown, and a dozen or more players tell upon him. An examination showed a fracture of the posterior arch of the fifth and sixth vertebras. The splintered bone pressed in on the spinal cord, crushing and injuring it severely. After several weeks it was determined to attempt the delicate and rare operation of the removal of the fractured iaminae of the spinal column. This was done successfully, the wound healing without complication.

Leading surgeons who have watched Bahen's case for the past month think that he may perhaps live for years, but admit that it will be in his present condition. There is a strong probability that the wonderful life of Moille Fancher of Brooklyn will be repeated. A somewhat similar case to Bahan's, though shorn of its most unfortunate features, is found in the records of the library of the Surgeon-General. Capt. Frank L. Keyes, one of two men selected from Gen. Hooker's division for signal service on the staff of Gen. McClellan, was struck in the battle of Malvern Hill a glancing blow in the small of the back by a piece of shell, which killed his horse under him. He lay forty-eight hours before being rescued. The posterior arch of two of the vertebrae was fractured and the spinal cord injured. His lower limbs were paralyzed, and though his bodily health is good he has not walked a step since the day he was wounded. His home is at New Castle, N. H.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING IN NORTH ST. LOUIS.

A pretty home wedding will take place this evening at the bride's residence, 1124 North Sixth street, when Miss Minnie J. Bensiek, daughter of ex-Councilman John C. Bensiek, will be married to Mr. Frank H. Niehaus, Jr. The ceremony will take place at 8 p. m. and will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Detters of the Bethany Church. The bride, a stately, beautiful blonde, will enter with her father, the groom following with his mother. The bridal gown is of heavy white corded silk, skirt made dancing length and trimmed in front with two straight bands of pearl embroidery fastened with tiny bunches of orange blossoms. The waist is made with short poisel in back and front and with deep berthe of point applique tace headed with the same pearl embroidery, high stock collar of pearl completed with two sprays of orange blossoms on each side, full leg of mutton sleeves. The bride will carry a large shower bouquet of liles of the valley and bride's roses. The maid of honor, Miss Laura Bensiek, will be gowned in white chima silk, veiled in soft creamy chiffon, and will hold a shower bouquet of tea roses. The best man will be the groom's brother, Mr. Emil Niehaus. Ther will be no other attendants. Prof. Schillinger will play the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party enters the spacious parlors. Afterwards a reception will be held for only the intimate friends and relatives, when congratulations will be received. The happy couple will dispense with a tour and go immediately to their own home, 1704 Bacon street, which the groom home, 1704 Bacon street, which the groom home furnished for a wedding gift, for the bride, and where they will receive their friends after Feb. 27.

CASTIEL INQUEST.

FOUR WITNESSES EXAMINED AND PROCEEDINGS THEN POSTPONED.

Coroner Atkinsin in the presence of a jury began the inquest on the remains of Louis Castiel, aged 52, who died from the effects of blood poisoning and pneumonia superinduced by a bullet wound inflicted in his induced by a bullet wound inflicted in his left foot on Dec. 18 last by McCune Holliday, then advertising manager of the Standard Theater. The evidence of four witnesses showed that Holliday was drunk on the occasion of the shooting, and that he went to Treasurer Richard Burke to get the money that was due him. Burke refused, whereupon Holliday drew a revolvey and began shooting wildly. Burke ran out of the office and fired a shot, whereupon Castiel, who was stage carpenter at the theater, ran out to ascertain what was the trouble. Just as he got into the foyer Holliday fired another shot and it took effect in Castiel's foot. The deceased was Halliday's personal friend, and after the shooting he sent word to the bour Courts officials that he would not prosecute.

The inquest was continued until 4 p. m., when the evidence of Dr. A. C. Robinson will be taken.

The post-mortem examination developed that blood poisoning and pneumonia was the cause of death.

Holliday was arrested Tuesday night at his residence, 1626 South Compton avenue.

ing to Chicago or Peoria, and in States further eastward the corn is going East. The latter section is said to be bidding 304c above what St. Louis can pay.

The following communication to the commercial editor of the Post-Dispatch comes from the "provision corner" on Change: "In noticing your suggestion to the Board of Directors to out down on their lunch expenses in order to get money to warm the Exchange building, a number of members, think it might be better for the board to again attack the death benefit and take off another $25 on the ground that dead men danot talk—that is, not much. Perish the thought that our Directors should be deprived of their pie."

M. Phillips, a well-known real estate dealer of Chicago, was on 'Change yesterday.

The corn markets of the country were excited yesterday by a report, said to have emanated from St. Louis, that $6,000 bushels of corn had been sold here for shipment to Des Moines, Iowa. Such an extraordinary instance of "sending coals to Newcastle" naturally excited the trade, and this report undoubtedly started the advance that took place yesterday in corn. To give some color of reason to this report undoubtedly started the advance that took place yesterday in corn. To give some color of reason to this report an inquiry was actually received from a point in Minnesota as to what corn could be bought at here and shipped there. When the price was wired it was far too high to permit of the filling of orders from the price was wired it was far too high to permit of the filling of orders from the price was wired it was far too high to permit of the filling of orders from a point in Minnesota as to what corn could be bought at here and shipped there. When the price was with a good deal of suspicion, especially as Chicago corn was relatively cheaper than St. Louis yesterday, considering the difference in freight rates between this market and Des Moines has defied all efforts to trace it down, and the trade now regard it with a good.

ON 'CHANGE.

WHEAT—There was just enough selling pressure on and lack of a supporting demand this morning to cause the market to be worked down %c. Then it rallied sharply and decidedly, selling up %c, but later easing off %c. Then it rallied sharply and decidedly, selling up %c, but later easing off %c. Then it rallied stiffly and rapidly on the boom in corn, closing at the top, and %g@$c, above yesterday.

The speculative traternity did not appear to be satisfied with the market conditions this morning, and the result was more selling than buying and an easing off in price. Yet these conditions generally favored the long side. There were firm and higher cables—id in Liverpool and 3d in London—reports of export sales at New York at advances, extraordinarily small receipts at direct receiving markets—32,000 bu, at Western winter wheat points, against 170,000 bu one year ago, and 101 cars spring wheat in the Northwest, against 123 cars last year—and a cold wave coming. But New York was a free seller in Chicago, which deadened the force of cables.

Export business in the winter wheat was well "protected from cold blasts. As on yesterday, it was corn that resurrected a built feeling in wheat, though an Argentine cable announcing a small exportable surplus owing to damage by rains, helped along the up-turn. The demand sharpened, selling let up and the market sailed upward. Spot grades—Another advance of 4c bid on call for No 2 red in United and Terminal by elevator buyers, but none offered below 51%c and that East side.

Not a sale reported after call. Local mills are having so much trouble now with bursting water pipes and machinery out of order that they do not care to purchase, and outside orders are limited below what the wheat can be obtained at. Futures—May opened at 53%c, cold off to 51%c, and with 52%c at 6524@534c to 53%c, closing at 53%c asked; July sold at 520 to 53%c, and with 52%c at the closing Liverpool coming %d lower and Braditiret's decrease in world's stock less than 1,000,000 bu, gave domestic m the bottom rate and then weakened sightly, but sudden burst of bull speed in Chicago, where shorts were said to be heavy and anxious buyers. An urgent definand was developed here that found little for sale, and the close was full it above yesterday.

Futures—May opened at 11½c, sold off to 40½c, but to 42½c (43½c)½c was bid), closing at 42½c)½c asked. July sold at 11½c to 42½c)½c, and at close 45½c bid.

The few sales after call were at 40½c for regular No 2 and 35½c for No 2 which in Central. No 3 quotable at 35½c East side. Spot grades—Higher for No 2, which a speculative buyer bid up ½c on call, though not taking all the offerings of regular at 40½c. A few cars in Central sold at 40½c) and 40½c in once offered and unsold at 40½c) and 40½c bid by an exporter for 50,000 bu E side; for Terminal 40½c bid. For No 3 in T and M 40½c bid by feeders, but held at 40½c, though regular offered at 40½c, no bid. No 2 white was dull and declined, selling in T at 41c and E side at 40½c, but more of latter offered; bid 35½c E side, 35½c for T, 40c for M.

OATS—The future market showed more offered; bid 2346 E side, 3346 for T, 40c for M.

OATS—The future market showed more activity and life than for some time past. The feeling was unsettled during the greater part of the day, but late was strong and advancing in sympathy with corn, and selling with buyers at 46% above yesterday. FUTURES—May sold at 23% to 30c to 39c to 30c and at close 3046304c bid.

Spot grades—Held firmly. No 2 offered E side at 31c; bid 30½c, and in M, C and T at 31½c, bid 31½c for T.

RYE—Except that No. 2 offered on call at 56c, the market was neglected, not a bid heard, but fully worth 35c.

BARLEY—Steady, but quiet Sales: Minnesota—1 cars at 55½c, 2 at 57c, 2 on p. t.

sville & Nashville.

NEW YORK.—The features in the market were not very pronounced. The early selling was regarded as realizing. The buying appears to be the taking back of stocks sold yesterday, with some little buying on the belief that the bond issue might be announced to-day. The taking up of the currency bill, however, was an indication that action on the bond issue might be deferred till after the vote in the House to-morrow. The later points in Chicago Gas were bullish. Northwestern stock was soid on the half year's statement and there appeared to be further realizing in Southern Railway. The bond market was featureless, the loan market unchanged except for additional demand and a slightly higher rate for Distilling and Cattle Feeding Sugar, Chicago Gas and L. & N. are the tional demand and a slightly higher rate for Distilling and Cattle Feeding Sugar, Chicago Gas and L. & N. are the Gas and Louisville & Nashville are the most active stocks on the list and all show strength. There is not much Chicago Gas for sale and it looks like going higher. The buying is by parties who are well informed in the affairs of the company. The earnings of the Southern Railway Company for the fourth week of January decreased $25,111, and for the month of January increased $25,248.

CHANGES IN THE HOUSE.

fect Twenty-Nine Members.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A glance at the records on file in the clerk's office in the House of Representatives shows that there have been no less than twenty-nine changes in the personnel of that body since the time members were elected. Eleven of these changes have been due to deaths, fitteen to resignations and three to-members being unseated by the House. The number is larger than in any Congress within the recollection of the older House officials, and is believed to be unequalled since the war. Since the election of the members of the Fifty-third Congress death has claimed Mutchler of Pennsylvania, Enochs of Ohio, Baitan of Maryland, Lisle of Kentucky, Shaw of Wisconsin, Wright of Pennsylvania, Lilly of Pennsylvania, Houk of Ohio, Battan of Maryland, Lisle of Kentucky, Shaw of Wisconsin, wright of Pennsylvania and Post of Illinois.

The following members have resigned their seats to accept the places indicated. Mitchell of Wisconsin, a seat in the Senate; Ledge of Massachusetts, seat in the Senate; Fitz of New York, Comptroller of the Currency of New York Cuty; Brawley of South Carolina; Blanchard of Court of South Carolina; Blanchard of Cuvisian, a seat in the Senate; Caldwell of Ohio, the Mayoralty of Cincinnati; Compton of Maryland, naval officer at Baltimore; C. R. Breckinridge of Arkansas, Ambassador to Russia; Oates of Alabama, to be Governor of that State; Cummings of New York, sub-way commissioner of the metropoli

TO THE POPULAR VOTE.

Sunday Liquor Selling Bill in New York's Assembly.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Assemblyman Wilkes of New York City has introduced a bill in the Assembly which provides that the Sunday liquor selling question be submitted to the popular vote of cities of 50,000 or more inhabitants. It was drafted-by John P. Smith, editor of the Wine and Spirits Gazette, who went to Albany to sound legislators about it, Mr. Smith said that as Messrs. Saxton, Lexow, Fish, Robinson and Ainsworth had promised to support his bill, he thought it had a good chance of passing. Mr. Smith's bill contains three brief sections. One provides that at the next general election voters shall have an opportunity of casting their ballots for and against the sale of strong drink, between the hours of 1 p. m. and 12 midnight on Sunday, Another says that if the question is affirmed by a majority of the voters, the succeeding legislators shall make laws to govern the new condition of affairs. The third section says that if the sale of liquor on Sunday during the hours named is at the expense of law, order and public decency, the next Legislature shall take immediate steps looking to holding of an election to repeal the law.

VEGETARIAN RESTAURANT.

New York Need No Longer Envy

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—New York has a vegetarian restaurant It was opened last night, which event was made the occasion of a special meeting of the New York Vegetarian Society. Of course there was a particularly good dinner to mark the opening. There was fruit to begin with. There was no fish, but when it came to dessert there was no fish, but when it came to dessert there was an array of sweets particularly enticing, while the coffee was delicious. The vegetarians go in particularly strong on sweets and coffee. They use no lard or other slaughter products, but they eat animal products like butter and milk.

There was a man at the dinner who had been a vegetarian for eighty years, the Rev. Henry S. Clubb. He is hale and hearty and President of the Vegetarian Club of America. He came from Philadelphia to attend the opening of the restaurant. London.

TO MISS DOROTHY DAVIS.

Ambassador Bayard's Son Will Wed

Wilmington Girl. Wilmington Girl.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—A special from Washington, Del., says: The engagement of Thomas E. Bayard, Jr., son of Ambassador Bayard, to Miss Dorothy Davis is announced. Miss Davis is a former Philadelphian, but has lived here some time. She is well known in Wilmington society, being a relative of H. P. Scott, the banker. Mr. Bayard is about 25 years old, a prominent member of society and has charge of his father's law practice. The wedding will probably take place in the spring.

Do You Know

To have those dreadful pains and aches in legs, shoulders, arms or any of the joints, which are the symptoms of

Rheumatism

If so, why do you not adopt the common-sense method of cure and take the best blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla? Rheumatism may well be considered a blood disease, undoubtedly originating in deficient digestion and improper food, which cause an excess of uric or lithic

Mr. Culver left for the Academy as soon as news of the fire was received, but prior to starting stated to his sons that he would now erect a fire proof building on the site of the one burned. For the present he will turn over his large cottage on the shore of the lake for the use of the 150 students. His sons stated that they did not hear him mention the cost of the new building, but judged $155,600 would be about it. The Academy is in a flourising condition and is growing in importance each year.

BLEW OPEN THE SAFE.

Burglars at a New York Post-Office Get

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Three masked burglare broke into the Post Office at Mattawan at 2 o'clock this morning. They used gunpowder to blow open the safe. An explosion was heard by Officer Marshal E. Snyder, who was near at hand, and he started to enter the building. As he crossed the threshold one of the burglars fired a pistol at him. The bullet entered Snyder's mouth and passed down through the neck, lodging near the left shoulder. Snyder's condition is very critical. The burglars escaped with the contents of the safe. The amount of money stolen is believed to be several hundred dollars. There is no clew to the guilty parties.

CHARGED WITH BIG AMY.

A Prosperous Missouri Farmer Indicted by the Grand-Jury.

CAMERON, Mo., Feb. 6.—Frank Shreve, a well-known and prosperous farmer of this county, was arrested and taken to Plattsburg to-day on a charge of bigamy. The arrest was made on an indictment by the Grand-jury. He was married several years ago to Miss Lizzie Deneen of this city, but they soon separated. Then he took up with a Miss Bailey, and is alleged to have married her at Leavenworth over a year ago. By her he has one child.

LEAD AND COPPER.

Valuable Deposits Found on a Farm in the Vicinity of Macon.

MACON, Mo., Feb. 6.—W. B. Seney of Narrow's Township, this county, reported here to-day the discovery of valuable lead and copper deposits on his farm. A party of prospectors have been at work there and claim to have found pieces of pure copper weighing from two to five pounds. A company will be organized to make further investigations as soon as the weather becomes more suitable, and if developments justify Mr. Seney's anticipations a strong syndicate will be formed here to operate the mine.

KNIFE AND PISTOL FAILED.

He was a Parisian and a faialist. Born fifty-eight years ago, he had courage enough to have lived still, but the doctors told him he would never be strong after he feell ill a year ago. Then he began to think of suicide. He had turned his hand to many things. His last regular aituation was that of manager in the Paiette Hotel, at No. 192 West Fifty-second street, in this city. He had saved a little money-enough to bury him when he should need it—and he made his home with a family named Michel in Rutherford, N. J., whom he had known for twenty years. They, too, were French and Parisians, and they will give him burial. Schultzung made the first of his four attempts at self-destruction on Nov. 22 last in his city. He had been dining with an old friend, a Frenchman, who has a cafe in Sixth avenue, and had told of his increasing ill health and his failure to get employment for which he was fitted. He had been looking for a situation as a manager or book-keeper all that day.

He slipped away after dinner without saying good-by, and hurried to the "L" station at Sixth avenue and Thirty-third street. In the waiting-room there he shot himself three times in the breast. He was removed to the New York Hospital, where the builtets were extracted. One was near the heart, and the surgeons thought he would die. Schultzung hoped they were right. He was disappointed. He recovered rapidly and was soon convalescent. Then he went back to Rutherford.

When he was well he tried again. A friend who found him handling a revolver took it from him. He submitted quietly and denied that he had intended harming himself. He was careful to give his friends as little trouble as possible. When it was time to try a third time he went to Hackensack. There he used a knife and out his throat and wrist. Passersby interfered before he could bleed to death and he was removed to the Hackensack Hospital. The Michels heard the news in Rutherford and paid his board in the hospital until he was strong enough to leave it. Then the was fast need to hear the
